Touring "Street Theatre" to Brighten Princeton's Outdoor Scene

A troupe of strolling players — well, mobile players, anyway — will play to audiences all over Princeton this summer from the fold-out portable stage of an old house trailer.

With a little bit of luck, the trailer-stage will have its world premiere during Princeton's Art-People party on May 6. But even if it's not ready that soon, it will indeed be ready for a summer season.

"Street Theatre," which made its own debut only last summer, and the Princeton Recreational Department are the sponsors. Last year's Street Theatre presentations were all for kids. This year's will be for everybody.

Amie Brockway, director of Street Theatre, plans to mount four productions encompassing six plays: one major, full-length production which could be a musical; two one-act plays, a children's play and two original scripts still to be selected.

An alternate-week schedule will be blocked out, and casting for the first show will be the 19th and 20th of June, with opening night tentatively set for July 13.

The expanded Street Theatre program this year is possible because of a $2,000 matching grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

Street Theatre applied for this grant, won it, and must now raise the additional $2,000 necessary to qualify for the matching award. Mrs. Brockway is already sounding out various organizations and individuals seeking financial support.

Incidentally, a condition of the arts council grant is that Street Theatre give an unspecified number of performances in urban areas, probably in Trenton.

Actors and crew for Street Theatre productions will be young theatre trainees, from seventh grade through high school.

"But there is no top age limit," Mrs. Brockway says. "We won't kick you out if you're as old as 20."

Right now, there are about 30 kids in the Street Theatre program and Mrs. Brockway hopes the number will expand in the summer, especially for shows that might need a big cast.

And there are the workshops — Street Theatre would like a lot of kids for those, too. Workshops will be offered in all areas of the theatre profession — stage design and construction, scene study, theatre "games," movement.

Young participants can be in one or more productions, or they can just be in the workshops. Everything will be on staggered scheduling to accommodate people who come and go on Summer vacations.

Waiting impatiently in the wings is Ted Woods, who wants to talk about the trailer stage. A graduate student in architecture at Princeton University (He already has a master's in design from Carnegie), he has designed a stage which folds its wings back into the trailer when it's time to move on to the next performance.

"The trailer is an old 1952 mobile home," he explains with enthusiasm. "It's still got a bed-frame, closets and a toilet. It has a wood frame with sheet-metal skin, like a boat. We're taking it apart, re-using the materials, and refurbishing it. We add the collapsible stage, a movie screen, acoustical reflector. Inside will be a control booth, storage and dressing rooms.

Mr. Woods has designed a stage with three-quarter round seating (see the sketch) to keep at a minimum the distance between actors and the back of the "house." Street Theatre, faced with a slim budget, has given first priority to a sound system rather than a complex lighting system, because hearing is vital in any outdoor theatre.

The trailer was discovered by Mr. Woods in Hammonton, on the lot of a mobile-home dealer named George Searle.

"He sold us the trailer for only $250," Mr. Woods says. "gave us new tires, electric brakes, jacks . . ."

Pared down to 20 feet in length in Mr. Woods' workshop, the eight-foot wide trailer will be pulled from place to place by trucks of the Recreation Department.

POLICE FILE OBJECTION
To Expansion of Committee.
Borough policemen oppose the Civil Rights Commission proposal to add three voting appointees to the Police Committee.

Police Commissioner Arthur P. Morgan read to Borough Council Tuesday night the letter of objection from the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, Local 130. "Unfair and discriminatory" are the words used by the PBA. In place of the new proposal, they ask for a trio of non-voting members.

The proposal will be open to public discussion next Thursday, April 20, at 7:30 p.m. in Borough Hall, when the Police Committee holds its regular public monthly meeting.

"We don't want to railroad this or ramrod it, and we'd like to see a good turnout at next week's meeting," said Max Blumenfeld, Civil Rights Commission chairman.

The Commission's proposal calls for three appointees, two of whom would be black. Councilman Martin Lombardo suggested that police themselves should be represented on the Committee.

The ordinance expanding the Committee could be introduced at Council's May 9 meeting; if so, another public hearing would follow in June.

More Land. Council established a Borough Conservation Commission and announced that the new group will meet regularly with its Township counterpart, although a Borough-Township marriage is prohibited by state law. A resolution asking the state to change that law was proposed by Councilman Robert Hendry and unanimously passed.

Council announced that it will join the Township in seeking Green Acres money to buy the 80-acre "Woodfield" reservation, now in Township hands under a contractual agreement with its owner.

Half the estimated $400,000 price would be paid by the state. (Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini says the Township will apply for Federal money to pay the other half. If that money is denied, Township and Borough will divide the remaining $200,000, probably on the rateables formula with the Borough paying one-third, the Township two-thirds.)

Council will also join the Township in acquiring the 6.2-acre Houghton-Castoro Canal-side strip on Lower Alexander. (Preliminary state approval for half the estimated $130,000 cost is now in hand, Mr. Nini says. Federal officials have not replied to requests to finance the rest.)

Bocci, Handball. By a 4-1

BOOKS FOR BRYN MAWR: The traditional Bryn Mawr Book Sale will open next Wednesday in the gymnasium behind Borough Hall — despite last winter's fire in which hundreds of volumes were destroyed. vote, (Councilman Charles Cornforth absent). Council approved a Recreation Department proposal for a $37,000 project: two additional paddle-tennis courts; two handball courts; one basketball court and two bocci areas.

Mr. Lombardo voted "no," charging recreation officials with neglecting broad community needs. He cited lack of toilet facilities and poor turf in the baseball field area.

At Mayor Robert W. Cawley's suggestion, Council passed a resolution asking for a thorough survey of all community recreation needs.

Seven Middle School boys from the Spruce-Chestnut area petitioned Council for half-court basketball facilities and a drinking fountain in the Hamilton Avenue playground. The youths had obtained 178 signatures on a petition.

Chip Williams, 47 Chestnut, spokesman, said most recreation was in the Community Park-John Witherspoon area, not in his part of town.

Addressing the youths, Mr. Blumenfeld advised, "You'll learn after a while to ask for more than you think you'll get — you should have asked for a WHOLE basketball court!"

Mr. Lombardo, abstaining in the salary ordinance vote, charged that directors of some agencies are out of touch with the needs of the community.

"If we have to bring people here, the way I brought these boys here tonight to talk about their playground, then we will," he declared.

Mayor Cawley and Mr. Hendry defended the budgeting performance of municipal agencies and Mr. Hendry chided

Mr. Lombardo for boycotting the financial discussions. "I find that a little offensive," he said.

"Avoiding additional taxes can be a public service, too," the mayor commented.

Who Serves? Later, Mr. Hendry opened a discussion on board appointees, listing 17 women and three blacks out of 78 potential board members. Half a dozen board positions are unfilled, he revealed, and asked for community volunteers.

Mr. Lombardo charged that Italian residents had been slighted, and said he had urged appointment of Miss Mary Perone to the Commission on the Aging. Mr. Hendry said he also had urged Miss Perone's appointment in the past.

Mayor Cawley conceded the need for balance, but said certain kinds of appointments "could emphasize the divisions in the community . . . and do all people of Italian descent want to be appointed because they are Italian?"

Jan Schaefer, for the Women's Political Caucus, promised a list of women volunteers.

Windows Broken. Half a dozen youths, in a "gang," have broken windows in the home of Wilson J. Esposito, 196 John Street, for the past two years, and Mr. Esposito demanded Council provide "constant surveillance."

"They come Wednesday and Saturday nights — last time on March 29 — and they throw rocks in my windows and break them and frighten my wife. There are other whites in that area — why do these Negro kids pick on me?" he demanded.

"My windows have been broken, too," said Redmond Marrow, 240 John Street. "I've even had them broken with a BB gun. Something must be done to stop this." Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan said he'd had extra men in the area and would step up surveillance.

Council will listen on May 9 to comments on it. Mr. Morgan warned that the measure is "reasonably tough" and could affect a lot of young music.

Council introduced an ordinance controlling abandoned cars. Public hearing is May 9.

Seeks Black Firemen. Mayor Cawley, noting the election of a white fireman to a fire company, urged the three fire companies to be "more aggressive" in seeking black members, and he advised Chief Al-lister Stewart that the question will be on the agenda when next the two meet.

Four members were named to the Borough's Commission in the Aging: Mrs. Helen Sherman, Lloyd Terrace; Chandler Wentworth, Linden Lane; Mrs. Janet Pearson, Tyson Lane, and Mr. Lombardo.

Council noted the announced retirement of Chief McCrohan. Mr. Morgan said the chief will serve as a paid consultant to the police department for six months after his August 1 retirement.

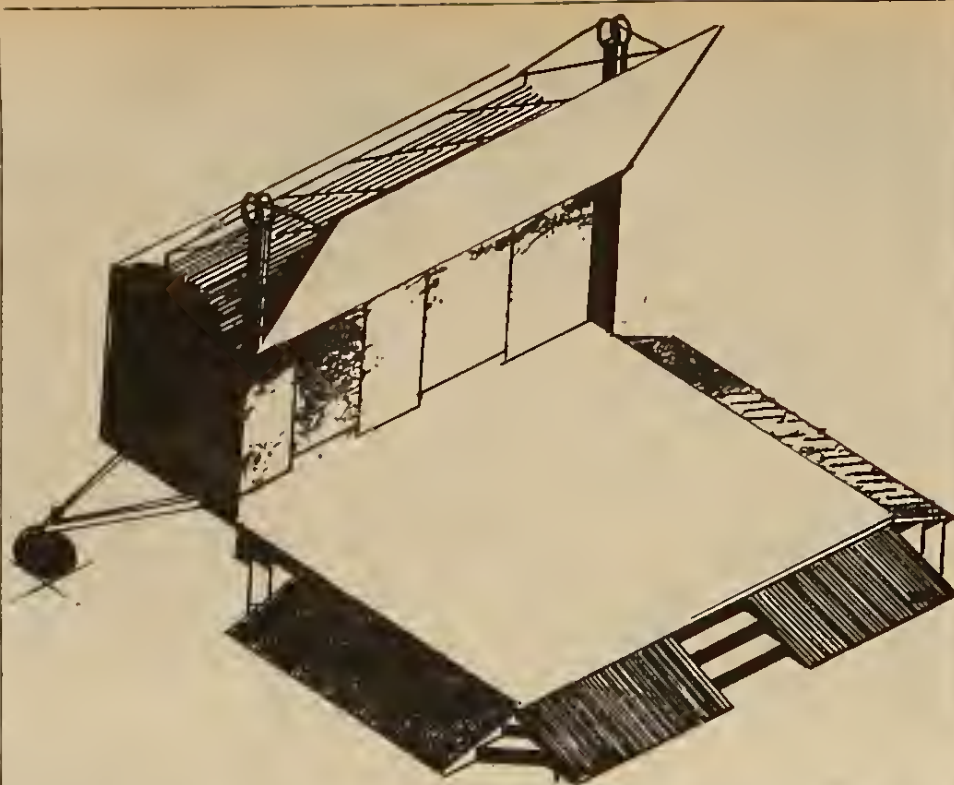

As of May 1, all traffic tickets will be computerized, announced Administrator Robert F. Mooney. Offenders going back two years will be searched out through the new system.

25 Years Service. Council presented a gift to Arnold Ryden, retiring after 25 years in the engineer's office. He has been secretary of the Shade Tree Commission.

David Blake, health officer, was also honored for 25 years' service.

Council unanimously passed a resolution presented by Mr. Lombardo asking Congress to enact multiple-sclerosis research legislation. Mr. Lombardo is on the staff of the national multiple sclerosis organization.

GATHER 'ROUND THE STAGE: Summer audiences can sit on three sides of this stage . . . and maybe even watch as its wings fold out from its trailer body (that's the trailer hitch on the far left). The stage was designed for Street Theatre by Ted Woods, graduate architecture student.

"Our department has a $5,000 budget for Street Theatre," explains Donald Barr, Princeton's recreation director. "We're picking up the salaries of Street Theatre's director and an assistant. We'll probably foot the bill for the $250 trailer because that way, it belongs to us and is covered by our insurance. But a lot of our contribution will be manpower."

One Recreation Department employee, for example, may lend his mechanical skill to Mr. Woods in converting the trailer. Another may drive the truck that hauls the stage.

Playgrounds and schoolyards are the most likely spots to set up the trailer-stage, Mrs. Brockway says. One problem, of course, is electricity, and Street Theatre prefers schoolyards because they have the electricity right there. The front green at Princeton High School turned out last summer to be a splendid place for performing, and it may be used again.

Mrs. Brockway also has an eye on municipal parking lots in the center of town. She adds,

"Our state grant, plus what we can raise, will give us $4,000, and we think this will make possible a really good program for Princeton this summer."

STUDENTS CONCERNED

On Teacher Contracts. The difficult decisions on teacher rehiring at the high school continued to be in the balance this week, but Superintendent Philip E. McPherson indicated that final decisions will probably be made by Friday.

High school officials haven't had complete information until this week on the number of students signed up for various courses next year, he explained. By this Wednesday, however, eighth-graders' choices will be in, and by Friday, Principal Patricia Wertheimer will have met with department chairmen to decide on teacher numbers.

Meanwhile, students, led by sophomore Cindy Purvis and junior Sally Bomberger continue to charge that Dr. McPherson, Dr. Wertheimer and Dr. Wesley Johnson, associate superintendent, haven't satisfactorily replied to student questions on cut-backs in the language department. Students are particularly concerned because they say language teachers are being dropped, but more physical education teachers are being hired. The language department happens to have many non-tenured teachers, subject to lay-off.

Students say administrators have passed questions from one to another, in a "run-around."

720 Sign Petition. A petition bearing 720 student signatures, including three-fourths of all modern language students, according to Miss Bomberger, has been presented to school board and superintendent.

"The petition states that modern languages is the last department where personnel reductions should be made," she says.

Miss Purvis said she first learned of language cut-backs "through a rumor." Students emphasize they are working independently of modern language teachers, although Miss Bomberger did say that one language teacher told her he was sure he wouldn't be back in the fall.

Students have asked for a student-faculty-public meeting to discuss their concerns. Dr. McPherson said this week he hadn't ruled out such a meeting but he explained that last month's Student Council meeting on the subject; a student meeting with Dr. Wertheimer after last month's school board meeting, another Student Council meeting this Tuesday and a conference between Miss Bom-

11-Year Old Admits Setting 5 Fires

Borough juvenile officer Thomas Procaccino last week charged an 11-year-old Princeton boy with setting five fires since October.

All were within a radius of a few blocks and involved mostly garage fires. Included was the February 16 fire which destroyed an estimated 40,000 used books which were being stored in a garage for the annual Bryn Mawr Book Sale. That loss was estimated at $10,000.

Lt. Michael Carnevale reported that police began to investigate the youth after a woman observed him in front of a burning garage on March 9 and supplied police with a description.

He was charged with setting one fire. As a result of further investigation and questioning, police said, the youth last week admitted responsibility for setting all five fires.

berger, Dr. Wertheimer and Dr. McPherson this Tuesday, should have cleared up most questions in the minds of students.

Outlining the teacher rehiring process, Dr. McPherson said the teachers' contract calls for notifying teachers by April 15 whether they have a new contract, will not have one, or are being deferred until May 1. These letters went out this Monday, he said.

In the beginning, he explained, statistical projections were used to determine the number of teachers needed next year. These showed the need for three more phys. ed. teachers, and indicated a modern language surplus. However, these projections were modified as the process went along, he said.

Students have also questioned whether the system's 1-25 teacher-student ratio has any formal basis. Dr. McPherson pointed out that the ratio was formally adopted by the school board immediately after school merger, and had previously been the policy of the old Township school board.

WHERE CAN I PARK?

Zoning Board Has Cases. Can a dentist's patients or a restaurant's customers cross the lot line and park on a neighbor's property even if the neighbor says "yes"?

This question will occupy the Township Zoning Board in two applications scheduled for hearing this Thursday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

The first is for the proposed Rusty Scupper restaurant on Lower Alexander Street. Harold G. Houghton, owner of the property, first must obtain a variance because restaurants are a prohibited use in that Service Zone in the Township. He also needs a screening variance.

Then the neighboring Princeton Car Wash needs a revision of its present permit to allow Rusty Scupper patrons to cross the line and park on Car Wash blacktop.

Dr. Arnold Hirsch, 211 North Harrison, faces a similar situation. He wants to add a one-story addition to his building next to the Church of God property. He wants his evening patients to park across the lot line on church property, and the church is in complete agreement. Without that across-the-line parking space, Dr. Hirsch can't meet the parking requirements of the zoning ordinance with his new addition.

YMCA IS SCENE

Of Separate Thefts. Two separate thefts at the Princeton YMCA were reported last week by an employee, John Kelsall.

On Monday, Mr. Kelsall told police that Mrs. Frank Manchester of Pennington had left the lounge to pick up her child at the pool. When she returned, she discovered that $16 had been taken from her purse. Police questioned several suspects.

Two days earlier, Mr. Kelsall reported that a cash box containing $20.70 had been taken from the Y's all-purpose room. The money, he said, was the receipts of a movie that had been shown there by the Colorado Rangers Club.

Police said that two youths about 15 to 16 are suspected of the crime.

TV Set Stolen. A television set was reported stolen from a home at 199 John Street last week by a thief who gained access through a cellar entrance.

Police identified the owner as Porfirio Davila. No value was placed on the set.

A cigarette vending machine in the Getty Service Station, 250 Nassau Street, was forced open between 9 Sunday night and Monday morning and its coin box removed.

Police said that entry was gained through an unlocked door in the rear. Nothing else was taken from the station.

Cash Box Taken. Early last week, a metal cash box, containing $17, was stolen from a file cabinet in an office of the Princeton Methodist Church, Nassau and Vandewater. Mrs. Christine Peaks, a secretary for the church, reported the theft to police.

Ptl. David Alston, who investigated, said that there were no signs of forced entry.

Susan Gallagher of Belle Mead, an employee at Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center, told Township police last week that someone had stolen $70 from her purse left in a women's locker room in the store.

The victim told police that she had cashed her payroll.

An assortment of jewelry was taken last week from the bedroom of Sheila A. Lazarus, 24, Lawrence Court Apartments. The value of the loss has been undetermined.

Nothing else was taken, police said, who report that a key was used or the lock slipped to get inside. Ptl. David Wilbur investigated for the Township police.

Tax Meeting Scheduled School Meeting Cancelled

School board members are anxious to see everybody in town at the Tax Policy Commission meeting next Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. in the John Witherspoon School auditorium, and so they have cancelled the school board agenda meeting scheduled for that night.

This means no agenda meeting for the board this month. The next school board meeting will be the regular one on Tuesday, April 25, at 6 p.m. in Community Park School.

At the tax meeting, jointly sponsored by Township Committee and Borough Council, members of Governor William T. Cahill's Tax Policy Commission will explain the Commission's tax proposals, and answer questions from the audience. The meeting is scheduled to end at 10 p.m.

White Is for April

Is the season
Really spring
With snow
All over everything?

Snow fell twice last week, and some of it stayed around for a couple of days in the outlying woodsy areas. Fortunately, the early spring flowers managed to survive.

With a slightly warmer trend taking over, the next precipitation is scheduled to be rain. Clearer skies will follow, but Sunday showers are a possibility, the Man reports.

Taken were a color TV set, stereo system and portable radio valued at $878. Entry was gained, police said, by punching out a pane of glass in a rear door. Det. Frank Buccanuso investigated.

THREE ARE CHARGED

With Stolen Property Possession, Three Trenton residents have been charged by Township police Monday with possession of stolen property after police found two coats valued at $106 in their car. The coats had allegedly been stolen Monday from Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Free on $50 bail each are Oliver C. Whited, 25, and Raymond F. Jackson, 18, of Trenton. Released in her own recognizance was Rose Ann Slater, 25. All three are scheduled to appear in Township Court May 3.

The three were arrested by Ptl. Anthony Gaylord who saw one of the trio acting suspiciously and then run toward his car parked in the Shopping Center lot. Police said that Ptl. Gaylord found the two coats inside the suspects' car.

JUVENILES INVOLVED

In Separate Assaults, Borough police report two separate assaults last week, one near Murray Theatre on the university campus and another in the Witherspoon Street parking lot. All those involved — both victims and assailants — were high school age juveniles, according to police.

Around 10:30 p.m. Thursday, several teenagers were going to the theatre when they were accosted by a gang of six black youths who demanded money from them. They got $30 from one; the others had no money, police said. The victims then ran into the theatre.

About 11:30 that night, three youths were stopped by three others in the parking lot who asked them if they had money. From one they got $30 plus change, from another $3 and $6.30 from the third victim. Two of the victims were from the high school, one from Brooklyn, police said. Later they appeared at police headquarters with their parents. The latter said that it would be up to the boys whether they revealed the names of those who robbed them. Police added that the victims knew their attackers but were reluctant to reveal their identity.

FREEZING RAIN CULPRIT

In Skidding Accidents. Friday evening's freezing rain triggered about a half-dozen skidding accidents in the township, the most spectacular of which involved two station wagons, a pickup truck, a sedan and a small compact on Washington Road.

The five-vehicle mishap occurred at 11:25 near Faculty Road. The only injury was a chipped tooth to one of the drivers and Ptl. Renn Kaminski of the Township police issued no summonses.

At 3:16 Friday afternoon, Tony Lalama, 42, of Clifton, received contusions of the chest and face when his car skidded into a service pole on Alexander Street.

Mr. Lalama told police that he had veered to the right to avoid a car coming in the opposite direction that appeared to be heading into his lane. He lost control. Before his car struck the pole, it damaged two sections of wooden fence owned by Princeton University. There were no charges.

BOOK SALE NEXT WEEK

By Bryn Mawr Club. Alumni of Bryn Mawr like to say that the symbol of the Bryn Mawr Club's 1972 book sale is the Phoenix, the legendary bird that rose from the ashes.

Back in February, the Club lost all its book sale contributions — thousands of volumes — in a garage fire. Since then, community contributions, plus contributions from other alumnae groups and book stores, have brought the volume of books up to last year's figure and possibly, in the estimate of Mrs. Frank Reeder, book sale chairman, even to the pre-fire level.

The sale will be held next week in the gym behind Borough Hall. On Tuesday, there will be a Children's Night from 6-8 p.m., when only children's books will be sold, and only to children.

The sale will formally open next Wednesday, April 19 at noon, continuing until 9 a.m. On Thursday and Friday, it will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Records and prints will be sold Thursday; all books will be half-price on Friday.

Saturday, April 22, the sale will run from 9 a.m. until noon and everything will be half price. Also on Saturday, buyers can have as many books as they can carry in a box, for $1.

Money from the sale is used to support scholarships, both undergraduate and graduate students who live in the Princeton area.

MEETING TUESDAY

Of Recreation Board. The Princeton Joint Recreation Board will hold its monthly meeting Tuesday evening at 8:15 in Township Hall.

One item the board will discuss in open session is a competitive swim program at the Community Park pools. In executive session, the board has on its agenda topics ranging from softball and playgrounds to discussion of a recreation survey, mobile street theatre and proposed meeting with the Mercer County Park Commission concerning the development of the north side of Community Park.

15 CASES PROCESSED

In Criminal Court Here. Fifteen criminal cases were processed last week in Borough court by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr.

Books from Einstein

A small collection of books from the general home library of Dr. Albert Einstein will be on a special table next week at the Bryn Mawr Book Sale.

The books, not necessarily Dr. Einstein's own personal treasures, consist of general fiction, texts, a few books in German. They were contributed to the sale by Miss Margot Einstein, the scientist's daughter.

Also on the Bryn Mawr tables will be rare books from Guernsey Hall, from the estate of Robert Moyer who was the most recent owner of the historic old house.

This group contains old copies of Vogue magazine (they will be on the Art Books table) and copies of the London Illustrated News.

Frank Boccanfuso, 21, 32 Oakland Road, was fined $110 and received a 30-day suspended jail sentence for possession of a stolen bank check and three counts of passing bogus checks. He was also placed on probation for 18 months with the Mercer County Probation Department.

Three were fined $35 each as minors in possession of alcohol: Glen A. West, 18, 12 Madison Street; James D. Kochis, 20, 95 Princeton Avenue, Rocky Hill; and Glenn C. Perantoni, 20, 37 Washington Rd., Rocky Hill. Joseph J. Richardson, 22, 42 Gordon Avenue, Lawrenceville, paid $60 for purchasing alcohol for a minor.

For possession of heroin, Danford A. Cruser, 25, 67 College Road West, was referred to a grand jury for possible action, while Stephen Nippert, 23, Billings, N.Y., paid $60. The same charge against Frederick Gonzales, 22, of 307 Princeton Inn College was dismissed.

Also sent to a grand jury were Douglas C. Spataro, 20, of Eatontown, and Karen A. Rasmussen, 18, of New Shrewsbury. Both were charged with Glen E. Eshbach, an officer of the Princeton Fuel Oil Company, pleaded guilty to violating a weights and measure Borough ordinance. He was fined $60. Frank A. Scarpelli had charged the company with failing to use a meter when filling an oil tank.

Sotero Mendoza, 47, of Trenton, was sentenced to three days in jail for loitering and being under the influence of alcohol. Assault with a baseball bat cost Kim Otis, 27, 184 Witherspoon Street, $85. She pleaded not guilty.

James E. Miller, 20, 7 Lytle Street, was fined $35 for possession of narcotic paraphernalia. A second charge of assault was postponed when the complainant failed to appear.

Boyd H. Howard, 22, of Trenton, was fined $110 for possession of stolen property — apparel allegedly shoplifted from Borough stores. He pleaded guilty. His companion, who was arrested with him, Donald E. Thomas, 22 of Trenton, failed to appear. His case was sent to the Mercer County Prosecutor's office for processing. In addition to possession, Thomas was charged with shoplifting.

HEALTH FAIR COMING

To Community Park School. "The Body - Magnificent Machine" will be the theme of a comprehensive Health Fair to be presented daily next week at the Community Park School. Sponsors are the Women's Auxiliary of the Princeton Medical Center and the Middle School PTO.

A two-day program on Monday and Tuesday, April 17 and 18, relating to careers in health, will launch the fair's week-long activities. Students will have an opportunity to participate in a "Hands On" project directed by Joseph Dzurenda of the New Jersey Department of Education. "Health Careers Day", scheduled for Tuesday, will be highlighted by equipment demonstrations by personnel of the Medical Center's School of X-ray Technology, Medical Technology and Practical Nursing and from the Center's Inhalation Therapy Department. Careers Day coordinators include Walter A. Seligman, Medical Center administrator and Mrs. Kate Trednick of the American Red Cross.

Pointing toward the Fair opening, both Middle School and High School students have prepared display sections for exhibition. Large acrylic canvases, by Patricia Mitchell, representing various medical subjects will be displayed. Princeton graphic artists will present a series of prints depicting the Fair's theme.

Contributing artists include Mrs. Joan Needham, Mrs. Helen Schwartz, Mrs. Mae Rockland, Mrs. Trudy Glucksberg, Mrs. Margaret Kennard Johnson, Mrs. Ann Gross, Mrs. Renee Levine, Mrs. Marie Sturken and Mrs. Yvonne Burk.

Walk-In Skull. A feature attraction will be a six-foot walk-through skull mock-up, "In One Ear and Out the Other", created by Middle schoolers under the direction of Mrs. Schwartz. A film festival featuring health subjects will be presented on Wednesday. Guest speaker will be Thomas Caldwell of the New Jersey Health Careers Service.

On Thursday, April 20, the program will include demonstrations by both the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, under the direction of Robert Buchanan, and by a panel of local area physicians. Participating doctors will include Henry Powsner, Morris Parmet, William Loery, Dudley Hawkes, James Hastings, Paul Sheldon and Gilbert Falcone.

The Union Carbide Corporation, Johnson & Johnson, Inc., and the New Jersey Hospital Association have contributed supplies to the Fair program. The Health Fair program was planned and coordinated by Mrs. Janet Mowers and Mrs. Mary Bannon, school nurses; Mrs. James Messer.

P. J. & B. "Sound of Music" Sweet to the Ear

"DO-RE-MI:" Roo Brown, as Maria, instructs the seven young Trapp children in the art of singing. All were in the cast of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "The Sound of Music," presented last weekend as the 1972 spring offering from P.J.&B.. (Jim McDonald Photo)

"The Sound of Music" rang through McCarter Theatre's spacious hall this past weekend and this reviewer had the pleasure of seeing the spring 1972 P. J. & B. production on Saturday night. The Rodgers and Hammerstein musical was directed by Milton Lyon, who again tastefully provided the musical portions of the show by joining with his able counterpart, Peter Wright, at two pianos.

Much has been said of the acting, staging, sets and choreography in past P. J. & B. presentations, but in a show such as "Sound of Music", the music is indeed the major force and the musicians have to be good. Since it has been customary in these productions to use two pianos in place of a more expensive orchestra, it must be noted that the quality of musicianship in the performances of Mr. Lyon and Mr. Wright were of the highest order. They played together as one, shaping every nuance of Rogers' beautiful score while always supporting the singer with just the correct amount of dynamic control. Good show, gentlemen!

As for the drama itself, there were some stilted moments where the acting seemed forced, especially at the beginning where Roo Brown's comedienne qualities seemed out of place in the abbey scenes, and yet as the play progressed so did Mrs. Brown's interpretation of the role of Maria. For one who is accustomed to the saccharine portrayals of Julie Andrews and Mary Martin, (excellent in their own right), it was refreshing (though it took some getting used to) to view Roo Brown's more buoyant, almost tomboyish characterization of the young postulate who becomes the governess of Captain Georg von Trapp's seven children.

Captain Trapp, played by Richard T. Arndt was superb. The timing of his lines was most apt, and he was convincing in his representation of the autocratic, militaristic widower in one situation while presenting the qualities of a keenly perceptive, committed and gallant romantic in another.

Children Make the Show. Without the children there is no show, and the seven seen and heard on Saturday evening were absolutely delightful. From Carmilla Carpenter's Liesl ("Sixteen, Going On Seventeen") to little Sarah Sword's Gretl, to Deborah Kahn's portrayal of the insightful middle child, Brigitta, — Continued on Next Page there was a natural spontaneity that I'm sure the audience found infectious. One heard every word clearly and the singing voices were both musical and feelingful.

A real find for the P. J. & B. players was the singing of Marie Bogart who brought her lovely voice to the role of the Mother Abbess. If she appeared a bit overly sweet, it did not deter her consistently strong performance as the warm and tender mother superior at the Nonnberg Abbey.
For "Sound of Music" is a sweet play; someone sitting in the audience was heard to remark that "One could get diabetes watching this show." It is a amusing quip, but it misses the spirit of the profound and tragic setting of the real-life story of the Trapp Family Singers — just before and after the Anschluss in Austria in 1938 when Hitler annexed the tiny European nation.

Other Credits. There were other important contributions which should not be overlooked. Virginia Long Annich, was as haughty as Elsa needed to be and sang very beautifully as well. Max, played by Jim Hopkins left nothing to be desired except his singing on this occasion, but as the benevolent comic "Uncle", friend and impresario, his interpretation was flawless.
I still heard a bit of Yente, the Matchmaker in Harriet Madeline Cogan's rendition of Frau Schmidt, the housekeeper, but that may be because she was such good Yente in last December's P. J. & B. production of "Fiddler". The Frau Schmidt role is a more subordinate part and Miss Cogan should be commended for trying to bring some vitality to it.
Steve James as Rolf Graber, the (eighteen going on nineteen) boyfriend of Liesl, is a fine young actor. He played Perchik in "Fiddler" and now returned to perform Rolf here. He has a strong voice, a quality of poise and confidence which distinguishes him as a man of talent. Hopefully we will continue to see more of him in future P. J. & B. productions.

A word should be said about the fine settings by Peter Politanoff. They form an integral part of the production.
When one considers that the show was cast, rehearsed and presented within the short period of five weeks, so soon after the performance of "Fiddler on the Roof", it is a credit to Milton Lyon and his staff to have succeeded as well as they did.
We now look forward to next year. Leonard Bernstein has written some fine music for "Candide". Can it be resurrected?
—Arno Safran

AVANT-GARDE

16 Short Films. Sixteen film-makers will be represented by 16 short films when McCarter shows a program of experimental, independent and avant-garde films next Tuesday, at 8 p.m.
The overall title, "Ann Arbor & Points West," indicates the geographic distribution. The program will consist of prize-winning works from the Ann Arbor Film Festival plus films by west coast independents. Unreserved seats are on sale in advance at the McCarter box-office. No one under 17 will be admitted.

The longest film on the program will be Sandy Daley's "Robert Having His Nipple Pierced," recording the musings of a homosexual as he has a nipple-ring inserted as a fetish. "At once, funny, touching and peculiar," is one critic's description.
"Airplane Glue, I Love You" was made by a student at UCLA. It tells about a 36-year-old model airplane builder who is mistakenly dragged back into sixth grade by a confused truant officer. Still in a light vein is "Television Land," a 12-minute review of TV's first 20 years, from Milton Berle to Nixon on Laugh-In.

Animation, computer films, abstract contemporary cinema and documentary surrealism will also be featured. And the two short films originally announced for February (they failed to arrive in time), will also be shown. They are "Henry 9-5" and "Lovemaking," the prize-winner at the San Francisco Erotic Film Festival.

"GUYS AND DOLLS"

At High School. The characters who walked the streets of Damon Runyon's New York will appear this weekend on the Princeton High School stage in the musical, "Guys

'Woyzeck' Neither Mirrors nor Challenges Life

I am not very old, but I experience productions like Theatre Intime's current offering, Georg Buchner's "Woyzeck", with a certain weariness, an exhaustion which may stem from the simple fact that I am a man who is terribly bored by the machinations and manipulations of this race, mankind. It is tiring, so tiring, to see and think of oneself through art like this: soulless, beaten, myopic, powerless. I feel compelled to create an argument against the vision.

I feel the need to say something terse and foul in response. But that may be the point, I discover surprisingly: I am responding like the man-crown of this allegory, Woyzeck himself: unintellectual, impassioned over his own imbecility, unblessed flesh and blood, and, finally, the grotesque puppet who protests against his own discovery that there is no puppeteer.

The world is out of our control; it is out of order; it is unnatural, or it is the opposite. We are pulling in a sewer, and the sun comes through the clouds "like God emptying his bedpan on the world."

Throughout this play we are told that man is dung, that he is the victim of his own inability to hold his water, that his intimations of grandeur are simple foibles. If we are Woy-zeck, our choices are few — the gun or the knife — and they are suicidal.

There is no reason not to take those choices, either. Happiness doesn't exist in this agora, nor does faith, love, permanence, or intelligence. Buchner makes me feel that I am somehow missing something; is the message as simple as all this?

Abstract and Allegorical. This production, arranged adapted and directed by Stephen Hunter, is not particularly studded with complexities, or intensities that communicate. It is abstract and allegorical, almost a cartoonist's message to the outer world.

One thinks immediately of George Grosz's work; the naked cruelties, the absolute viciousness, the satirical insights, the savage art. But the simplicities of such antique visions seem terribly dissatisfying; they are half-truths, half-visions, and they are satisfying only if one assumes that man can adequately be portrayed by a puppet.

The disappointment of the play is that I think I have understood its shaping intelligence too easily, too simply, so that I can only assume that I have either been misled or am choosing not to see the deeper reaches of the allegory.

About allegories: Let us stand up everywhere against abstractions, symbols, simplicities. I somehow do not care to identify or engage my life with that of a clown in whiteface; it is a cheap trick.

Moreover, I think that Woyzeck — who must ultimately be seen as a victim, not a clown — must be shown to exist outside this play. Otherwise, the circus in which we find him is not the outer world, but art itself. He exists nowhere but on the stage, and he tells me nothing, not a thing, about my own life.

I am told much more by the choices someone must have made in selecting this work. The play represents the real problem of our time, in my view: the tendency of everyone who makes choices, especially the artist, the actor, the director, to choose the simple, the unstructured, the abstract, the absurd, and assume that the audience will make all the vital connections. I find that insulting.

The spectator does indeed seek confrontations in the theatre, but these confrontations must be between men, not between men and symbols. Just as I wished to stand up and say "Be a man!" to Woyzeck, this play — by the severity of my reaction to its inadequacies and simplifications — helps me to define my own manhood. Sadly, there is neither mirror nor challenge for it here.

Beaux Arts Trio Delights in Balanced Concert

The Series I and Series II season has come to an end for this Princeton concertgoer and it has ended very well. It is always a pleasure to hear musicians who are the best in the business, and the members of the Beaux Arts Trio of New York (Menahem Pressler, piano; Isidore Cohen, violin; and Bernard Greenhouse, violoncello), have no peers as a trio in this writer's opinion. The program was as well balanced as the playing, consisting of the Trio in D Major, Opus 70, No. 1 ("Ghost") by Beethoven; the Trio (1904) by Charles Ives; and the Trio in C Major, Opus 87 by Brahms.

Whether the music at hand be Beethoven or Ives, the Beaux Arts plays with a magnificent precision of ensemble, a wide variety of dynamic shading and a brilliant tonal splendor in all three instruments. Sometimes Mr. Pressler's gnomie gestures appears to distract the listener from the music, but these are obviously unconscious on his part and what comes through is the correlation of these mannerisms with an intense perceptions for all the music he plays.

Mr. Pressler is an ensemble musician in every respect. His attacks are sure and his rhythmic execution consistently steady. The tone quality he produces from the keyboard is richly varied, only occasionally overbearing, but never offensively so.

In Isidore Cohen, heard only last week in a Marlboro series concert at 10 McCosh Hall, we have a master violinist, with a strong bow arm and a beautifully resonant tone. When Bernard Greenhouse is given an opportunity to display the dark colors of his 'cello's lower register, one hears a refinement of tonal splendor reserved only for the best soloists in the world.

CONCERT SCHEDULED

By Fine Arts Quartet. The Princeton University Department of Music Chamber Concerts will present The Fine Arts Quartet on Thursday, April 20, at 10 McCosh at 8:30 p.m.

The program will be: Milton Babbitt: Quartet No. 3 (1969-70); Schumann: Quartet in A Minor, Opus 41, No. 1; Beethoven: Quartet in C Minor, Opus 131.

The Milwaukee-based quartet, born in 1946, retains its two founding members, first violinist Leonard Sorkin, and cellist George Sopkin. Second violinist Abram Loft, a Columbia University Ph.D., joined in 1954; the new man is violist Bernard Zaslav, a seasoned ensemble player trained at Juilliard who joined three years ago. The Fine Arts Quartet is one of the two oldest living American string quartets (the other is the Juilliard), and they are "pioneers" in the history of stereo recording, having produced the first binatural tapes to be made available commercially.

Tickets at $3 (Students $2) are available at Concert Office, Woolworth Center, Princeton University (924-0453) or at the door. To order tickets by mail, please make checks payable to: Princeton University Music Department, enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope and send it to the Concert Office.

MEETING SUNDAY

Beethoven and the Brahms works are well known to concert audiences and have been played in Princeton in recent years, but the Ives is not well known and deserves comment here. It is April of 1972, the concert we are sharing, having occurred only last Monday evening, yet the Ives Trio dates from 1904, almost seven decades old.

All the earmarks of the mature Ives are present in this remarkable score; the employment of familiar hymn tunes (especially familiar to Ives' contemporaries), such as "There Is a Fountain Filled With Blood" and "Rock Of Ages," welded so skillfully within a polytonal and polymetrical web of sonorities, the sardonic wit of the middle Scherzo movement (one of the funniest pieces of music ever composed), and the serene and contemplative splendor of the Finale in which the setting of "Rock Of Ages" appears as a commemorative to the way things used to be but can be no more.

Through this amazing array of Ives whimsy flows some exquisitely profound musical speech, and the Beaux Arts Trio's interpretation brought forth every rewarding nuance from Ives' fertile imagination. As an encore, the Trio played the slow movement from Dvorak's renowned masterpiece, the "Dumky" Trio. It was a fitting close to a masterfully performed program, one that those attending will relish for a long time to come.

GARDEN OF THE FINZI-CONTINIS; award-winning film by Italian director Vittorio De Sica, is at the Princeton playhouse this week with Dominique Sanda and Lino Capolicchio in the roles of the persecuted young lovers.

News Of The Theatres

PLAYHOUSE

The Garden of the Finzi-Continis (now playing) received the grand prize at the 1971 Berlin Film Festival and brought director Vittorio De Sica ("Bicycle Thief" and "Shoeshine" of the 1940's) back to public awareness.

The story is set just prior to World War II, when Mussolini was following Germany's lead in first discriminating against Jews, then removing them to concentration camps. The film focuses on two Jewish families — one very rich, powerful yet removed, the other middle class and involved. The counterpoint is the love of the son of the second family for the rich daughter of the first.

Dominique Sanda, the girl, is incredibly beautiful. She and Lino Capolicchio offer intense performances. The film itself is uneven, starting slowly and gaining interest at mid-point, with the last 20 minutes being extremely effective and touching.

Music In Princeton

The meeting is A Cappella, and the conductor will be Mrs. Barbara Connelly Lewis, with the Princeton Madrigal Group.

In addition to members of the society, musically interested persons are cordially invited to participate or attend, and should contact Mrs. M. B. Gottlieb at 921-7214. There is a small charge for non-members to cover music and refreshments.

PIANO RECITAL SET

At Princeton Inn College. Piano music by contemporary Israeli composers will be played by James Carmichael in a recital next Wednesday, April 19, at the Princeton Inn College. Scheduled for 8 p.m., it will be sponsored by the Princeton Hillel Foundation and is open to the public without charge.

Mr. Carmichael, a 1971 graduate of Princeton with an A.B. in Music, studied here with Robert Miller and Stuart Surick and is presently studying with Robert Helps. His home is on the Wertsville-Montgomery Road.

The program will include selections by Ram Da-oz, Yehuda Engel, A. U. Boscovich, Oldon Partos and Paul Ben-Haim.

Penny-wise people ought to try it!" He's usually on hand at the drycleaning machines at the Coin Wash, where you can leave your things, do errands and come back and they'll be ready for you.

"THE ONES WHO KNOW"

Are in Every Week." "I can't figure it out, David Kass at the Coin-Op Drycleaning said last week. "The women who don't need to pinch pennies use the coin-op cleaning; the ones who maybe ought to, don't!"

He held a free, get-acquainted offer in Town Topics earlier this month and most of the newcomers brought in expensive, exquisite things to be drycleaned in the coin machines. "I'm just not reaching the women who ought to be using it. And the ones who know are in every week!"

Mr. Kass, busy taking things in and out of the machines, noted that so many of the clothes these days are made from polyester. Pointing to a white pant suit in double knit, he went on.

"Coin-op cleaning is great for the knits, for all of the synthetics. And they're so light weight, that you can get a great deal cleaned for far less than regular dry-cleaning."

He's competing with his own regular drycleaning service at the Wash-O-Mat, the twin sister of the Coin Wash, both at 259 Nassau Street, behind Viking Furniture. He's the only storeowner we know in town who competes with himself.

And he's frankly sold on the coin-op service he maintains. He has gone to special pains to make sure that trousers, dresses, suits, blankets, sweaters and curtains emerge from the machines clean, fresh and free of chemical odor.

The one thing he can't beat is the wrinkle. If your skirt was wrinkled when it went into the machine, it will be still that way when it comes out. So Mr. Kass has worked out a solution.

He has a portable steamer for the free use of anyone who wants to take advantage of it. We watched while he put a shirt on a hanger and sprayed steam along the wrinkled hem, and again when he steamed the wrinkled knee area of a pair of trousers. The steamer left no trace of the wrinkles. "The people who know about it are crazy about it."

He advertises eight pounds of dry cleaning for $2.75; four pounds for $1.75. At the current weight of polyesters, that's a lot of drycleaning. "Funny, this is such a saving! It works so well, and yet we're not reaching the women who need to watch their pennies more. . . ."

Mr. Montagu has been the author or editor of more than 50 books, among them "Man's Most Dangerous Myth: The Fallacy of Race," "The Natural Superiority of Women," and the more recent, "Man Observed." In addition to writing, he has been active in teaching and research.

Admission is free and no tickets are required.

DEADLINE APRIL 21

For Pre-Kindergarten Program. The Princeton Regional Schools will continue to conduct a Pre-Kindergarten Program through the 1972-73 school year.

Since this program has a limited enrollment of 60 children, priority for admissions is generally given to those who have not had previous nursery school experience and those who have special needs. The child must be four by November 30.

Those who feel their child might benefit from this program may apply for admission by completing an application which may be obtained in any elementary school office or through the Office of Special Services at the John Witherspoon School.

The deadline for the return of completed applications is Friday, April 21. Those needing assistance in completing the application may come to the John Witherspoon School on Friday, April 21, between 9 and 11 a.m. or between 1 and 3 p.m.

As requests for admission usually exceed the available openings, further screening will be necessary. Applicants will be informed of the procedures. The purpose is to determine which children appear to be in most need of this Pre-Kindergarten experience.

IAP GETS $775

From Jaycees. The Institute for Applied Psychotherapy at 291 Witherspoon Street has received from the Princeton Jaycees a check for $775 to be used for a library-study room in the 291 building.

John O'Leary of the Jaycees presented the check to Nancy Hartnett, direction of the IAP in Princeton, at an open house held Saturday.

IT'S NEW To Us

LEATHER IS THE MOOD

At Viking Furniture, You can settle for solid comfort at Viking Furniture, 259 Nassau Street, by settling into a hand-made leather sofa from Switzerland, or a buffalo leather recliner with hand-tied tufts.

Leather-covered furniture is on the up-swing right now among the decorators, and Viking has a selection that ranges from padded club chair types to variations on the sling chair theme.

"I've been in this business for 18 years," Marty Bratman of Viking remarked to us last week. "I have never sold as much leather as now. The reason? Possibly the cost of upholstery. It often is more expensive than the original cost of the chair or sofa."

"Customers have the feeling that leather is an ever-lasting thing. When the leather gets older it gets a patina that you just can't get in a fabric. Under normal conditions, the older the leather is, the nicer it looks."

Viking has a Hunter chair in top grade calf with a rose-wood base. Heavily cushioned, the floor model is in a tone known as "Mexican brown," a rich, rust-brown shade. It also comes in black.

From Switzerland, the Descende sofa is a marvel of hand-crafting. Probably the finest leather sofa you can buy, Mr. Bratman believes. There is a very contemporary look to the rough stitching used as trim. The sofa is three cushions wide. The leather itself has interesting graining, and there's a choice of about 12 shades, the color achieved by aniline dye which does not fill the pores of the leather. There are a number of other designs by the same firm, all well worth browsing.

In buffalo leather, the recliner is set on a swivel and the back may be stopped at various positions. The design features the high, curved back that is so comfortable. Viking also has a teak-framed chair in buffalo leather, as well as a very comfortable three-cushion sofa. Again, there is a variety of color available in the leather. Also, a choice of sizes.

Over near the Israeli pottery is a Hager chair, a low-slung, beautiful thing of chrome with padded arms and a deep cushion flowing from a roll behind your head on down to your knees. The cushion is a striped fabric in gray and white, with a handwoven look to it. Chrome casters, too. ($135)

Remi, Too. The Remi chair is for the young moderns on a light budget. Made of canvas on a sleigh base of chrome, there's a loose puff cushion covering the canvas. In fact, you can put a whole Remi group together with much style and elan. Combine the chairs with a Remi table — which is a white square of plastic on runners.

The only stainless steel-and-glass table we've ever seen that may be extended is the Brueton model at Viking. The size is 40-inches x 72-inches — a great expanse of beautiful glass, edged in shining metal. The wings are added on the end, and may be used on a nearby wall as temporary shelving, pending a major dinner, or can be placed on the Brueton tea cart as the upper shelf.

yes. So storage of the wings is no problem.

An Italian designer named Avanti became intrigued with the open end box and has designed a fascinating set of modules for stacking against the wall. The manufacturer is Dux of Sweden. Not only are the boxes long rectangles, instead of squares, but they are finished in a white polymer lacquer that is toughly resistant to scratch and stain. The visible edges are metal.

This is what you can do with the boxes — or modules, as they are called: insert a series of drawers for a lingerie chest, or add doors; or insert the TV and use the ready-made opening in the back for the cord; or add shelves. Stack modules on top of each other to the ceiling, or side by side, wall to wall. Display objects d'art, or books, or store tennis rackets.

A module is 89-inches high x 17 3/4 deep x 23-inches wide. Buy it empty at about $120.

Looking around Viking, we found coffee tables at the convenient "European height" which is higher than the usual. The wood is teak and the surface is tile — a lovely series of small tiles in whatever color you wish. The top we saw was a red-rust flecked with black. ($159.)

For practicality in a studio apartment, the Nya Dixie group from Norway. The couch has storage underneath; it opens at the head for a lengthy bed. There's a companion corner table and a bookcase. Choose white lacquer or oak or an antique finish.

ORGANIZED REPAIR

For TV, Stereos And All. There's a new kind of repair shop in town, organized from the word go with flow charts and brightly colored tickets. It is called Weathers Electronic Service, and you'll find it on Lower Alexander Street in the little cul-de-sac that also houses the Princeton Ballet Society.

FACTS

ABOUT COIN-OP DRY CLEANING
at PRINCETON'S COIN WASH

259 Nassau Street

Q. Are the cleaning fluids you use the same as the ones my professional dry cleaner uses?
A. Yes, ours is the same solvent that 99% of the professional cleaners use.

Q. How much do I save by using the coin cleaning?
A. Up to 75% of your present costs.

Q. For instance?
A. Here's the best comparison — 6 to 12 sweaters form one 8-lb. load. The coin-op cost is $2.75. You could have 8 to 10 polyester dresses and pants in a single 3-lb. load. Costs are 2.75 for 8 lbs.; $1.75 for 4 lbs.

Q. How do drapes come out?

A. Drapes are our specialty, and the savings are tremendous. We have equipment especially designed for handling large, bulky items.

Q. Do I have to do the dry cleaning myself?

A. The hardest think you have to do is pay for it. Just weight it and the attendant takes care of the rest.

Q. How long does COIN-OP CLEANING take?
A. Same day service — in fact, most times it's ready in the same hour.

Weathers repairs television sets, radios — even the little transistors that you're about to throw away — tape recorders, stereo components, two-way radios, microwave ovens, electronic test equipment and is about to get into the new video tape equipment. So whatever you have, Weathers is interested.

The shop is in the hands of H. James Kishi, president and technical manager, and Frank A. Ricatto Jr., general manager. Mr. Kishi, who holds substantial degrees in engineering, has been intrigued with this type of equipment since he was 10 years old, learning about radio at a New York City YMCA.

He has had extensive experience at RCA and brings with him a big corporation's type of testing equipment that is used on your non-functioning gadget at various points as it goes through the repair line. This means that your new tube isn't going to blow the old ones, and that a weak part can be detected.

Weathers is the authorized warranty service center for over 40 electronic brands from AKAI to Wollensak, Garrard to Motorola, Capehart, Bell & Howell, Sony, Panasonic, Pioneer, Harmon-Kardon, and more.

"We even work on the little pocket radios that people find nobody wants to fix," Mr. Kishi says. "A $10 radio? We handle this at a nominal price. So don't throw it away. Often only a minor thing is wrong. They are complicated, but we know the set."

The A to Z. This is very true. Weathers has all of the schematic diagrams from the major companies. In fact, it works with company technicians and is one of the firms in the field who report the "bugs" in a model to the manufacturer — and make suggestions for correcting it.

Weathers knows the A to Z of electronics, physics and related chemistry. Mr. Kishi says. It can fix a dictaphone as easily as a desk calculator or a portable short wave. But currently, its biggest area is the home entertainment field, the TV and all the rest.

Mr. Kishi, who lives on Terhune Road, worked for many years with RCA's inventor-genius Paul Weathers, and has named his shop after him. Mr. Weathers was among the pioneers at RCA radio and about 20 years ago set up a highly-organized repair organization, which the Princeton company emulates.

The flow charts and the management system may seem a little strange to those of us used to the organized disorder at the usual radio-TV repair shops. But it is a highly efficient way to keep on top of jobs that are waiting for parts, or that are in some state of repair, so that when an estimate of how long it will take to do another job is needed, it can be figured quickly.

This is Frank Ricatto's department. He was at IDA working with the computer there when Mr. Kishi found him. He has since received a degree in management and you'd be surprised at the way corporation know-how can simplify life at a repair shop. Soon all the inventory will be computerized; so will records of repairs on the various models brought in.

Weathers can work on a $10 transistor radio or a satellite system. Times sure change.

Come see the Canes, in Rosemont, New Jersey. They've kept alive the love of hand-worked woods and simple lines in home furnishings. Most of the things you'll find at Cane Farm are hand-made, either right on the farm or in the shops of other artisans. ART In Princeton

THE JOY OF CREATIVITY

At McCarter Theater. The current art display at McCarter Theatre is a very special collection of work by an exceptional group of young artists.

The Joy of Creativity as Expressed by the Children of the Neuro-Psychiatric Institute, Woodbridge State School, Hunterdon County State School and the McDonald Comprehensive Elementary School in Pennsylvania is the title of the show. The artists are all young people who are patients, residents or students at these institutions and whose art experiences are done for both pleasure and therapeutic purposes.

Much is learned about the emotional problems of a subject through the nature of his work, and much can be done to help the same patients reach reality through art. One can only make assumptions, however, in this exhibit as the amount of information available in conjunction with the art is quite limited.

In some cases, both the chronological and the mental

"BARN ON AQUETON ROAD," one of the pointings with an architectural theme in exhibit currently at Gallery 100.

age of the artists is divulged and in such instances both the intrinsic beauty and the implications of the work displayed becomes extremely meaningful. However, there are many instances where the viewer feels the need for more information about the reasons behind the work and the goals determined for the young artists. Particularly so in the instances where the skill levels exhibited seem to coincide with the chronological age of the artist.

Varied Media Used. Many different media are displayed. Collage, paint, crayon and sculpture are all attractively exhibited.

Some of the work stands on its own merit as art in its sensitivity, color use and feeling. The remainder is moving because of its sources and reasons for being. One is impressed with both the range of skills and tools that are available to these children.

Hopefully, more information during the duration of the show. The work is charming and the implications of such a exhibit profound and important. Surely there are many opportunities within this interesting display to aid and inform the observer in appreciating the many levels of meaning enclosed within the work displayed.

At the University Museum. The Prints and Drawings Gallery is displaying a small but beautiful collection of Italian Drawings. Mainly of the 16th and 17th centuries, the drawings reflect the high level of skill demanded of the artist of that era, in a variety of drawing media.

The classical approach to anatomy and detail results in finely and sensitively wrought wash, ink, pencil, chalks and combinations of the aforementioned media. The subjects are mainly religious or classical figure studies. Also included are combinations of figure and landscape, as well as architecture that ably display the fine eye for line and form that marked this period.

The delicacy and sensitivity to detail mastery of fine drawings techniques, sensitive tonal approaches and a flowing calligraphic development of line are among the outstanding features in this exquisite collection of small works.

At Gallery 100. Architecture as art is a subject seldom understood and even less frequently well projected by the painter. Elizabeth Wadleigh Leary in her current display at Gallery 100 manages not only to capture the poetry of the structures she paints but contributes some of her own muse in her subtle, almost-realistic color interpretations.

Hyper-realistic paintings of barns, old houses and combinations of segments of old and charming buildings are given an extra dimension by the quality of light that Mrs. Leary creates through her color. What at first glance seems to be realism is actually a continuation of the artist's vision.

Black Photographers

"Expressions Through the Eyes of Black Photographers," an exhibit by both professional and amateur photographers, will be on view from this Friday at the Princeton Youth Center.

Several of the photographers exhibiting in the show will be present Friday from 7-10 p.m. when the exhibit opens. The public may also visit the Center to see the pictures this Saturday from 1-5 p.m. From then until Friday, April 21, the exhibit will be open daily from 1-10.

Photographers exhibiting are from Princeton, Trenton, New Brunswick, Plainfield, Philadelphia, Washington and New York. Both black-and-white and color photography are represented.

Varied Exhibit to Open Sunday at Studio-on-Canal

Ayako Firsing and Virginia Steinmetz are jointly sponsored in an exhibition of their work at the Studio-on-the-Canal beginning Sunday and to continue through April 30.

Mrs. Ayako Firsing, an Asian artist, will exhibit water colors and oils. She received her general education at Ochanomizu University in Japan and studied art with Yuaku Matsushita.

After coming to New Jersey, she began her studies with Rex Goreleigh and Hughie Lee-Smith at the Studio-on-the-Canal, and with Ted Spaw in Pennington. Mrs. Firsing's water colors and oils won prizes and patrons in area shows, including the Asian Art exhibit held at the Studio last July.

Virginia Steinmetz, formerly of Lawrence Township, now a resident of Camp Hill, Pa., will show oils, drawings and paintings on marble. She began her studies with Constance Bonotto and Rex Goreleigh in Princeton, and in New York with Isaac Soyer, Sidney Dickinson and Richard Seyfert at the Art Students League.

Recipient of two awards, she has exhibited at the Studio-on-the-Canal, the Hunterdon Art Center, the Mill-at-the-Forge Gallery, Yardley Art Association, the Art Students League and the Artists' Shack in Pennington. Mrs. Steinmetz is a member of the Princeton Art Association, Hunterdon Art Association and the Art Student League. Her works are in numerous collections.

ally carefully - interpreted, subtly-refined tones of green, greys and browns which combine effectively to the extra level of perception which is truly a beyond-realism fantasy. The effect gives the lovely old barns and houses the extra life and mystery which they have always contained but has heretofore remained invisible.

In the front gallery at Gallery 100 is an intensely-toned collection of watercolors created by a young Bucks County artist. Jenny Stasikevich has studied in Mexico and her work has a distinctly Pan-American primitive flavor. Bright paintings employ traditional symbols and forms to create a pleasing and exotic effect.

At the Drawing Room. Oils, water-colors and drawings from the 16th to the 20th century fill the Drawing Room. This diverse and unusual gathering of paintings and drawings represents a large segment of an anonymous private collection that is now available to the public for the first time.

Included in this are a range of drawings by the great and the near-great, a few large paintings and many different styles from many different eras. The collection is truly that of an eclectic art lover who selected for his pleasure as opposed to the more scholarly or pedantic concentration of one period or medium. This yields a varied and visually stimulating grouping which is made even more interesting when it is considered of the tastes and preferences of one individual.

DECOUPAGE SHOW SET

At Artist Shack. The Artist Shack, Inc. will hold its third annual Decoupage show on Saturday and Sunday, April 29 and 30, at the Main Conference Room at the Stage Depot Restaurant. The exhibit will be opened to the public from 12-6, Saturday and 1-5, Sunday.

The elegant 18th Century Art of Decoupage is currently enjoying a revival. Decoupage is the art of decorating surfaces with paper cut-outs. The surface is then varnished which makes the image appear to have been painted. The results are decorative objects with a fine-art quality.

The Decoupage show will include works by the students who have taken the basic and advance Decoupage

Spirit of Law Lacking

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to relate a small incident that seems to me indicative of the distressing atmosphere that always surrounds the issue of parking violations in Princeton.

On Good Friday, at 4:30, I left my office to do a few errands. One of them involved parking across from Pier 16 on Nassau Street, which I did, marveling at my good luck in finding a spot so quickly. I put in my meter money, noticed the policeman ticketing the car two down from mine, and crossed the street.

Three minutes later, unsuccessful in my mission, I was back and astonished to find a ticket on my car. I quickly went to inspect the meter and only then noticed a very small plaque on the stem of the meter prohibiting parking from 4 to 6 weekdays.

Granted the sign was there, granted that Good Friday is not the holiday I probably would have assumed, granted in fact that I parked illegally, however unwittingly, a question remains. Why did that policeman, who certainly saw me, not call out as one person to another and bring the sign to my attention?

Although the letter of the law in matters of parking always seems to be observed in heroic proportions in Princeton, I have consistently found the spirit wanting.

Spreading the Blight.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The connection between violence on T.V. and in the movies and violence in social behavior is receiving its long overdue study and recognition. There is need for a like study of the effect of pornography in pictures.

At The Prince Theatre is showing the much acclaimed "The Last Picture Show", portraying in superb photography and acting, the aching emptiness of the landscape and of life in a Texas Panhandle town, where the unimaginative efforts of a H. S. English teacher and of a fat athletic coach and of a decent pool hall owner serve only to throw into greater relief the utter barrenness of its existence.

Where people are, there is always "sex" for entertainment and occupation and it is given graphic and poignant scope. The picture is Art, not abstract but realistic.

To the sensitive viewer and to the thoughtful adult, this movie represents the flatness, the ugliness, the ultimate devastation of such cheap, tawdry sex exhibition and experimentation. It is a picture of tragedy. But to how many viewers is it exciting?

Does the two hour vicarious sex stimulation whet the appetite of highly volatile passions for the clandestine, the thrill of the surreptitious, the secret exploration of sex? Do they get the after brown taste in the mouth, the unsatisfied dullness, the road sign "to the dump", that is definitely there. Must magnificent photography and acting serve so blighting an end?

One is deeply moved by the absolute cultural vacuum of such a community as the one depicted and "something should be done" about it out surely not by spreading the blight.

An Alternative to Abortion.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The pro-abortion activity of some individuals and organizations in the Princeton area is well known. There are, however, those of us who view abortion as what it is — killing a living and developing human — and as such, oppose it.

We do not rejoice in the recent court decision invalidating New Jersey's anti-abortion law.

All human life is precious, not only that threatened by war and capital punishment about which we hear constantly, but also that of the unborn child and the senile oldster. (The push for euthanasia grows in an increasing number of States).

No one is idiotic enough to deny that there are unfortunate women with unwanted pregnancies. Is there an alternative to abortion for them?

Yes, there is Birthright. Birthright: an organization founded in Canada, and growing in New Jersey as in other States. Birthright is completely composed of volunteers, and completely dedicated to assisting any girl or woman with an unwanted pregnancy who is contemplating abortion.

Birthright attempts to convince her to have her baby, giving her whatever help possible — a place to live, medical and legal assistance, guidance and counseling, and information to help the mother decide whether to keep the baby or give it up for adoption. Birthright will also help find the woman a job if needed, before or after her baby's birth.

Birthright is reachable at (201) 247-5445.

Birthright offers a positive solution — out of compassion, kindness and love. And out of the realization that an unborn baby has as much right to society's concern for its life as do the rest of us.

ROTC Supported.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In reply to the letter addressed to President Goheen by Margot Huber-Haynes and published in Town Topics April 6th.

The military is indeed occupying far too much of our time and money. However, do you not realize that one big step forward to correct this is the movement to have a volunteer army?

If our President is able to get this bill passed we shall need men of education and culture to lead these volunteers and these leaders will come from the R.O.T.C. units throughout our colleges and universities.

Benefit Film a Success.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Conservation Coalition is deeply grateful for the efforts and aid of those who helped to make their showing of "Blue Water, White Death" on Tuesday night a success.

The money it made will help the operation of the Environmental Clearing House, a joint effort of local conservation groups to provide an information center and base of operations.

First, we thank Mr. Knight of the Playhouse for not only getting the movie but ordering the many posters, etc., needed for our publicity. We also thank all those stores who helped by displaying the posters.

A special thanks goes to Hult's, Lucar's Hardware, Noah's Ark, the Whole Earth Center, the University Store, and Palmer Square, Inc., for their pains in helping us sell advance tickets. We are most grateful to the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, and all other groups who helped sell tickets.

We are also grateful to Town Topics and other papers and radio stations for their help in publicizing the event. We hold in very special regard Liz Fillo for her help in working up the radio ad, which would also not have been possible without the generous aid of the Friends of Princeton Environment.

Our special guests, Stanton Waterman, associate producer and photographer, and Tom Chapin, accompanist, made a terrific show out of an already great one by being with us at the performances. They deserve the gratitude of everyone who attended, and we thank them heartily.

The Coalition would also like to thank Mrs. Cynthia Fox, who masterminded the entire operation, and without whom the project could not have succeeded.

Our last but biggest thanks is for everyone who attended, and helped the Environmental Clearing House. We urge everyone to come to the rear of 360 Nassau Street, and see what we are all about!

THREE GAMES CRUCIAL
For Princeton Baseball Team. A single game with Dartmouth and a double header with Harvard, defending champion in the Eastern League, confront the Princeton baseball team as it opens its campaign for the title and a possible berth in the NCAA Tournament.

The Indians will be here Friday at 3:30, with the Crimson at Clarke Field Saturday at 1. In the event of rain or snow, either team involved in a postponement will play Sunday.

Harvard will play Columbia in New York Friday, with Dartmouth going there Saturday to face the Lions. None of the four teams involved is likely to win all three of its weekend games, but those which emerge with 1-2 records will find a shot at first place extremely difficult to attain.

For the second year in a row last spring, the Tigers took two out of three from Harvard and Dartmouth but still could not win the title. Each of the past two seasons, they have dropped two out of three to Brown and Yale to spoil what chances they have had of winning their first EIL championship since 1953.

Harvard has lost three pitchers who won 20 of the Crimson's 27 games last year as it took the league title from Cornell in a playoff and then managed a fifth-place finish in the College World Series at Omaha. Gone, too, is big Pete Varney, now a catcher with the Chicago White Sox. Still, the Crimson has 11 lettermen back from that team and figures to make a run for the 1972 championship.

Dartmouth, too, contributed a player from its 1971 team to the majors — Pete Broberg signing as a pitcher with Washington (now the Texas Rangers) for a $100,000 bonus. His departure before his senior year leaves the Indians dependent upon returning hurler Jim Metzler (3-1) and a group of promising sophomores. Wayne Young, who hit .400 last spring is the top man with the bat.

Coach Eddie Donovan will probably go with his top hurler, junior Randy Blevins, against Harvard on Friday, and Bill Coppedge, another righthanded junior, in the first game against Dartmouth. Senior Steve McLean, who blanked Temple, 13-0, in his first start here this spring, is a possible choice in the second game with Dartmouth.

Blevins has 11 straight hitless innings to his credit, seven in the 4-0 triumph over Maine and four more against NYU last week. He was removed from the game with a muscle pull after running out an infield safety at top speed on a cold afternoon.

The Tigers had a 4-0 lead at the time, sophomore Steve Crandall coming in in relief to preserve a 4-2 triumph. A two-run single by shortstop Jeff Davis brought the first two across in the third, while hits by first baseman Ken Beytin and left fielder Tony Riposta added a pair in the next frame.

Friday's contest with Manhattan was postponed by sleet, with no date currently set for a replay. The Tigers were scheduled to play Rutgers at New Brunswick Wednesday afternoon, hoping to better their current 7-2-1 record.

CREWS TOP RUTGERS

On a Very Cold Day, Carnegie Lake generally provides temperature lower than elsewhere in the Princeton area, but Saturday afternoon from 4 to 4:30 must have marked the coldest regatta in Princeton rowing history. A few more hours of sub-freezing temperatures and a total absence of wind might very well have produced skim ice on the lake.

Eagles-Giants Sept. 2

The Saturday before Labor Day has been selected as the date for the 11th annual meeting in Palmer Stadium of the Philadelphia Eagles and New York Giants.

To be played September 2, the football game will again be sponsored by the New Jersey Jaycees. A sell-out is expected to send the amount raised for charity over the $2 million mark since the first contest was played here in 1962.

By the end of the varsity race, however, Princetonians cared little how chill the atmosphere was as the Orange and Black varsity led Rutgers across the finish line by better than a length (five seconds) to complete a sweep of the day's rowing program. Over 2,000 meters, the winning time was 6:50.4, extremely satisfactory in view of the prevailing conditions.

Princeton opened at 46 strokes to the minute and had a slim lead over the Scarlet with 500 meters gone. At the quarter-mark, the visitors' 2, 4 and 6 oars simultaneously caught a crab, bringing the boat to a virtual halt for a couple of seconds. Against capable opposition, a crew rarely recovers from that sort of mishap, and the Tigers were not to be caught.

Earlier, the Princeton freshmen had won in 7:12, leading the Rutgers first-year shell over the line by nearly two lengths, while the Tiger jayvees were also victorious — in 7:14.2 by better than three lengths. The Logg Cup thus stayed in Princeton for another year.

The cold weather did prove too much for the Middletown High School crew in Connecticut. It cancelled its trip here, thus preventing the women's varsity from rowing its first race for Princeton.

Saturday will see Coach Pete Sparhawk head for Annapolis in an attempt to extend one of the most unusual streaks in intercollegiate rowing — the Tigers' string of ten straight victories over Navy. The odd part of it is that the middies often develop into top-flight crews — last year, for example, they won the Eastern Sprint Championship at Worcester, whereas Princeton never won another race after trimming Navy.

TAYLOR TURNS PRO

To Pick Nets or Supersonics. The 100-to-1 shot that Brian Taylor would follow a professional career in basketball, once his thinking turned in that direction, last week became a reality.

His Princeton career at an end, he will now seek to play off the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association against the Seattle Supersonics of the National Basketball Association. The former acquired his rights as far back as February, the latter chose him Monday in the NBA "hardship draft" and he will now make his decision based on his stated priorities: 1. location; 2. money; 3. ability to play with the team he joins.

Bird over Bibby

Most basketball fans on the East Coast have heard of Henry Bibby, guard on UCLA's national champions, but how many West Coast fans know who Reg Bird is?

Around here, they will tell you that he's the substitute guard on Princeton's team who was picked in the NBA draft ahead of Bibby. When the Atlanta Hawks chose the Tiger senior, he was the 55th player selected; four picks later, Bibby was chosen.

Time and again last season, after Bird had come off the bench in a reserve capacity to help Princeton win, the opposing coach commented, "That's when they turned the game around." Gene Tormohlen, Atlanta's chief scout, likes Bird because "he makes the offensive player vary from what he wants to do."

Last Wednesday, Taylor called a press conference, purportedly to reveal his plans. Shortly thereafter, he revealed them in detail for publication next day in the Daily Princetonian, thereby making his 2 p.m. session in Jadwin Gym Thursday with some twosome newspaper and radio representatives a good deal of an anticlimax.

He will be represented in his bonus and salary bargaining by Larry Fleischer, a New York lawyer who has apparently done the job to the satisfaction of Princeton's three alumni in the NBA — Bill Bradley, John Hummer and Geoff Patrie. It was Bradley who introduced Taylor to Fleischer, and the latter is no doubt fully aware that his latest client thinks he can nail down about half a million dollars for his services.

New Charges Made. In the course of making his decision known, Taylor spoke further of his disenchantment with Princeton, in this instance over its financial arrangements with him, and over its admissions policy. He spoke with feeling on the fact that Armand Hill and Ron Haigier, a pair of standout Negro basketball players, were rejected by Princeton last spring.

Haigier went to Penn. Hill took a post-graduate year at Lawrenceville and Taylor declared that he is the only black player recruited by Princeton to gain approval of the admissions office. A charge of "tokenism" at his expense was added to his charges against policy here.

It is, incidentally, on Hill's decision whether to attend Princeton that the immediate future of basketball here largely hinges. Acceptances go in the mail Saturday, and Hill is reportedly on the list, but whether he comes here is a matter of wide conjecture.

It Taylor's departure for the pros downgraded sharply the future of Princeton (the Tigers would have been a good bet to win the 1973 Ivy title had he remained in college), it did result in status quo at the coaching level. Pete Carril, confirming the report that he had considered calling the past year his last at Princeton, said he would stay "in preference to leaving a sinking ship."

Freshman coach Art Hyland has, however, told the University that it must find a replacement for him. He will accept an administrative position in New York with the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

OCEAN TOWNSHIP NEXT

For PHS Track Girls. The Princeton High School girls track team will engage in its second dual meet of the season Monday at Ocean Township — a newcomer to the schedule.

The team, coached by one-time PHS hurdler Lamont Fletcher, was scheduled to open its season at home this Wednesday afternoon against J. P. Stevens, starting at 3:45.

PHS NO-HIT VICTIM

Hamilton Here Tuesday. Princeton High School's baseball team, victim of a no-hitter by Ewing's Fritz Sickels in its opener last week, will try to get its bats working next week against Lawrenceville and Hamilton in back-to-back games.

The Little Tigers will be at Lawrenceville School on Monday and then entertain Hamilton High School here Tuesday. Both games will start at 3:45.

In its opener with Ewing, picked by nearly everyone to repeat as Mercer County champion, the Little Tigers played well. They committed one error and pitcher Lance Marshall gave up only five hits and walked two in going the distance.

The big difference was Sickels. Nine-and-one last year as a sophomore, Sickels set down the Blue and White without a hit — striking out 11 of the 23 batters he faced. He walked two. His teammates backed him up with errorless ball.

Ewing scored two runs in the fourth on a walk, stolen base and back-to-back singles by Don Henley and Dick Marchetti. The Blue Devils then picked up an insurance run in the sixth frame to make it a 3-0 final.

Although it was Sickels' first no-hitter as a member of the Ewing varsity, it was not the first of his career. Two years ago, as a member of the Ewing Babe Ruth team which captured the world series title in California, he pitched a pair of no-hitters in the playoffs and a third in regular season play.

Although PHS committed only one official error — an overthrow from outfielder Don Crosby in the fourth — the Little Tigers were guilty of a pair of mental errors. One figured in Ewing's third run.

For the opener, PHS coach Harry Zoll, went with this lineup: Ray Richards, 1b; Mike Carlucci, 2b; George Boccanfuso, ss; Kent Bain, 3b; Don Crosby, 1f; Greg Kline, cf; PHS CENTERFIELDER: Greg Kline returns to play centerfield again for the PHS baseball team. He is a junior.

Bob Spiegel, rf; Bob Zinsmeister, c, and Marshall on the mound.

TRACKMEN LOSE PAIR

Ewing Here Thursday. The Princeton High School track team, 0-2 after two starts, will try to make Ewing its first victim Thursday when the Blue Devils come to Princeton for a 3:45 meet.

PHS will entertain Steinert next at the same hour on Tuesday, Saturday's meet with New Brunswick, postponed by the weather, has not been rescheduled.

For most of the meet with St. Anthony's Monday, it was nip and tuck, but the visitors pulled away at the end to win their first of the season in two starts, 73-58.

PHS had one sweep in the two-mile, where Tom Snow and Pete Nichols tied for first with a clocking of 10:33. John Woodside was third. Ronald Smith and Bill Frazier finished first and third in the mile. Smith's time was 4:49.6.

Louis Drury captured Princeton's other first, taking the shot with a toss of 46-7½.

Dead Heat in Relay. By far, the most exciting event was the mile relay. Under a new rule this year, teams have to run at least one relay event.

Pete Foltiny, running the first leg, staked PHS to a 3-yard lead. Bill Wilson, however, failed to hold it and St. Anthony's had about a 10-yard lead at halfway mark. That gap held throughout the third leg, run by Terry Weiner for PHS.

A poor exchange cost the Iron Mikes a few yards on the final lap but Lionel Hammond, PHS anchor man, still had about eight yards to make up. He closed the gap and the two runners came down the stretch neck and neck — only to finish in a dead heat.

"Great job," said PHS coach Larry Ivan to the gasping Hammond. "You couldn't ask for a better race than that. Each team was clocked in 3:48.2."

One event that "really hurt us," said Ivan, "was the high jump. There, St. Anthony's Mike Beach jumped 6-0 to grab first place from Princeton's Bill Wilson.

Other seconds for PHS were Don Owens in the 100 and 220 (11.2 and 25.4); Mike Coda in the 880; Hammond in the low hurdles and long jump; Craig Carlton in the high hurdles; Richard Guzy in the javelin (159-8) and Steve Woodside in the pole vault. Woodside vaulted 10-0, while teammate Mark McLean claimed third.

Hammond leaped 19-2 in the long jump in the final event of the day after fouling on his first three jumps. It prevented a St. Anthony sweep but by then it was too late. Leon Lackey of the visitors had three jumps in the 19-foot area and then hit 20-0 on his last jump.

Ambushed in Opener. Earlier, PHS was ambushed by Bridgewater-Raritan West (12-0 last year) by a lopsided, 87-39 score. "Now you know how Custer felt," said Ivan midway through the slaughter. The meet, run Thursday, was the opener for PHS.

PHS was overwhelmed in the races. In the 100, 220, 440, 880, mile and two mile the best the Little Tigers could do was a second by Ronald Smith in the 880 (2:07.3) and thirds by Pete Nichols in the two-mile and Don Owens in the 220.

The team was hurt by those vacationing. "I've lost so many I can't keep track," commented Ivan.

PHS captured its only firsts in the field events. Louis Drury won the shot with a toss of 46-5¾, while teammate Bill Alexander was second at 46-3½. Steve Woodside captured the pole vault with a lead of 11 feet (his best 11-9) and Bill Wilson tied Bridgewater's Glenn Phillips for first place in the high jump. Both leaped 5-8.

Richard Guzy captured second place in the javelin. Other seconds for PHS were Lionel Hammond in the low hurdles (22.8) and long jump; Drury in the discus; and Craig Carlton in the 120-yard high hurdles.

In a mile relay run just for the fun of it, the Golden Falcons outran the home team with a closing of 3:51.4. PHS was timed in 4:08.4. Running for PHS were Bill Frazier, Steve Roderick, Pete Nichols and Roland Smith.

LARRIES ARE NEXT FOE

Of PHS Stickmen. Loser in its first two games to Fairlawn and Maplewood by scores of 9-2 and 12-2, the Princeton High School lacrosse team hopes to find the going a little easier Monday against Lawrenceville School.

The contest will be played at Community Park field here, starting at 3:45, Wednesday, April 19, the Little Tigers will be at George School. This Wednesday afternoon, Coach Marvin Trotman's squad was scheduled to play at Montclair.

Where weather conditions were creating havoc with field conditions in other sports, Trotman reported that conditions for Saturday's game here with the Maplewood Lacrosse Club were great. Very little else went right for the outmanned Little Tigers. "We just didn't have it; we were overpowered," said Trotman.

PHS entered the game with two strikes against it: it was shorthanded because some of its players were away on spring vacation and it was facing one of the strongest teams in the state. "They were throwing two and three mid-fields against us and we had the equivalent of about one and a half," commented Trotman. Steve Stone and Brooks Mohrmann, both midfielders, accounted for the two PHS scores. Later in the contest, Mohrmann was injured in a collision and taken to Princeton Medical Center where he was kept overnight for treatment of a hip injury.

Same Story at Fairlawn. Against Fairlawn in the opener last week, Trotman commented that the team might have done better if, again, it were not for a shortage of manpower. "It was not one of Fairlawn's better teams," he said.

So far, defense has been the big problem for the Blue and White.

"Once we get the ball into the offensive zone we're not too bad," said Trotman. "I don't think anyone can stay with McGuinn one-on-one." Joe McGuinn, attack, who is expected to lead the Little Tigers in scoring this season, scored one of the two goals against Fairlawn.

After completion of its game with Montclair, PHS will have the toughest part of its schedule behind it. "The first three are the toughest we'll have to face," agreed Trotman. "We should be pretty much competitive after that. I'm still optimistic at this point."

EXPERIENCE LACKING

On PDS Baseball Team. A 10-man squad that loses seven members through graduation and one through transfer doesn't leave much behind on which to build. That, in a nutshell, is the problem facing the Princeton Day baseball team this season.

The poor spring weather hasn't helped much either, giving the Panthers little time to prepare before their first game played this past Tuesday against Rutgers Prep. (See page 38.)

Last season's 9-4 mark was achieved with nine starters and just one reserve, but it was all the Panthers needed as they won their division in the Penn-Jersey League. Although they dropped out of the league in other sports, they are members for baseball and tennis, but winning their division again will be an uphill battle.

Of the returning players, two will be in the outfield, co-captain Kirk Moore in right, and centerfielder, Carl Rosenberg, who batted .395 last year and won all-league honors. Mark Ellsworth, last year's 10th man, will alternate at first and on the mound.

Coach Alan Taback will also have Ron Webster and John Boyd sharing the pitching duties, but Boyd, who hurled for the Panther jayvees last year, is the only one of the three with much experience. John Claghorn and Peter McCandless carried the load last season.

Dan Blum has the inside track for the third outfield position, with Jim Britt and Mike Stix behind him.

The infield will have either Webster or Ellsworth at first, Chip Place, a junior, and Dave Beckwith, a freshman, are at second; Duncan Martin, a transfer student, will be at shortstop, backed up by Gary Salup.

Junior Mike Felder gets the nod at third with Doug Haitch, a sophomore behind him. Ted Van Dusen is long on ability, but short on experience as catcher, but should grow into the job. He will be backed up by Mike Shillaber.

ANOTHER PLAYER OUT

For PDS Lacrosse Team.

Beset with numerous personnel problems, the Princeton Day lacrosse team was faced with another one this week, when co-captain and goalie

Andy Houston came down with mononucleosis.

His replacement will be veteran attackman Dave Barach, who will fill in until Houston recovers. A variety of problems have combined this season to pare down the Panther squad, including injuries, transfers, and senior study projects.

After a scheduled game against George School this Wednesday afternoon, PDS will meet Lawrenceville B away

A car so advanced, it can tell you just about everything that's right or wrong with it.

Remarkable new invention in every 1972 Volkswagen.

We've all been through it.

The agony of an automotive check-up.

You sit nervously thumbing through old magazines, praying that somehow you can get out of there for less than $50.

Then, the moment of truth:

A Service Manager telling you that one of his best mechanics thinks you need a new generator.

Those days will be over soon if you own a 1972 Volkswagen.

For instead of a mechanic telling you what he thinks is wrong with your car, now your car can tell you for sure.

Sound amazing?

It is.

A car wired like a space capsule.

When Man went to the Moon, the success of each mission depended a great deal on a highly technical computerized system that told the Astronauts the exact condition of their space vehicle.

A similar system is now built into every 1972 Volkswagen.

The system in the car.

Running throughout the car is a network of sensors, each reporting the condition of various parts of the car.

Most of these sensor points are located in key areas like the engine or the electrical system, but many are found in seemingly insignificant places like the heated rear window.

The information from all areas is channeled to one central socket located in the rear engine compartment.

The socket is about the size of a pack of cigarettes.

We mention the size only because of what happens next. And that's what this amazing socket can do.

60 vital service checks.

Soon you'll be able to take any 1972 Volkswagen into an authorized VW dealership for the most advanced automotive check-up in the world today.

At that time, your car will actually be plugged into a computer.

And in half the time it takes to perform a conventional check-up, 60 vital service checks will be made and recorded.

Checks wheel alignment in 10 seconds.

In 10 seconds, you'll know if your front wheels are properly aligned.

In a minute, you'll know the condition of the compression of all engine cylinders.

Without a mechanic so much as taking a peek, you'll know whether or not your battery needs water.

Ignition, cylinder compression, dwell angle, generator, electrical system—

All checked out without human error.

In effect, your car will be telling you how it feels directly.

And once again, this information is emanating from that one tiny socket built into the back of every 1972 Volkswagen.

Results printed out in plain English.

One-half of the system is already here. Built into every new Volkswagen.

The other half, the computer, is on its way.

Imagine.

A computer five feet away from your car is printing out in plain English just about everything that's right or wrong with that car.

When all 60 service checks have been made, the print-out sheet is yours to keep.

What better proof to show that your automobile has finally had a thorough physical check-up?

A new way to look at a VW.

It started with economy, back in 1949, when it wasn't fashionable for an automobile to be economical.

But since when has a VW been fashionable?

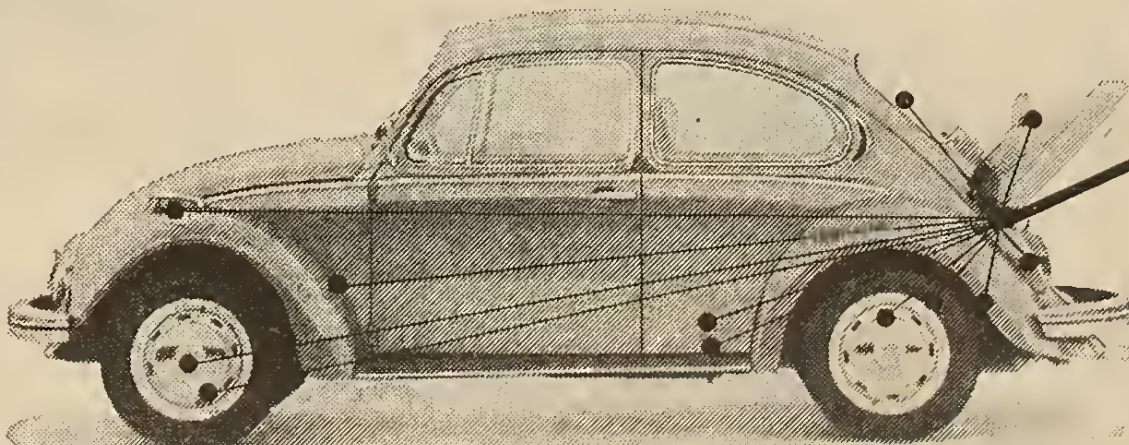

Since never.

Obviously, the Volkswagen Beetle hasn't made it on looks alone.

But then, that's always been the plan.

While everyone else has been worrying about how their cars looked, we've been worrying about how ours acted.

And now, after all that time, we've even advanced it to a stage where it can speak.

AN AMAZING SOCKET, BUILT INTO THE BACK OF EVERY 1972 VOLKSWAGEN, THAT WHEN PLUGGED INTO A COMPUTER, WILL ACTUALLY REPORT THE CONDITION OF YOUR CAR — DIRECTLY TO YOU!

BUSY WEEK AHEAD
For Hun School Nine. Its opener postponed last week because of cold weather, the Hun School baseball team will find itself busy, playing four games in six days.

Games against George School and Ewing on Friday and Saturday will be away. On Monday at 3:45, Hun will entertain Peddie, and on Wednesday at 3, the Pennsylvania School for the Deaf will be here. Hun was scheduled to play its home opener this Wednesday at 2:30 against visiting Pennington School.

"This will tell," commented Hun coach Bill McQuade on the cluster of games, "if our pitching will hold up." McQuade is starting his first year as head coach.

Friday's opener at Perkio-men, cancelled by snow and rain, has been rescheduled for May 9.

Perks' Tony Cifelli then hit on an 10-foot jumper and was fouled in the process. Although he missed the conversion, Perks came up with the rebound and ran off precious time. Staats then converted the first of a 1-and-1 situation to put the game out of reach for HAC.

In the early going, Perks built up an 18 to 12 lead after the first period. Suder accounting for half of the 18 points. Harrison fought back by going more to Radday in the second period.

BOWLING NOTES
A-League Tightens. When Ivy Inn took three games from Balestrieri last week in the A League at the Princeton Recreation Lanes, it left Hesco Electric and Rialto Barber Shop in a tie for first place (42 points each) and itself in a four-way tie for second place, two points back. Bunched with the Inn at 40-all are Balestrieri, Princeton Market and Sherwin Williams.

Ivy Inn received some fine bowling from Jim Kahny, who rolled a 612 series, and from Bucky Cupples and Harry Kahny, who rolled 201-211 and 205 respectively. Jim's games were 208-212-192.

Nick Rossi of last - place Smith Bookbinding leveled the most pins, rolling 215-229-189 for 633. Frank Delneso and John Cifelli had 222 and 219. Between 214 and 200 were Bud Cavanaugh, Tony Cifelli, Jack Lucey, Sim Shely, Bob Cifelli, Les Gibbs and Joe Ruberto.

Jim Carter with 233 was high in the Nassau League. He rolls for Hinds. Albert Petrella of IASC and Vince Baldino of first-place Tiger Garage each had 224s. Teammates of Baldino, John Baldino and Sal Di-Meglio had 211 and 210.

Others: Tony Gaylord 218; Tony Amalfitano, 213; and Pat Hubbard, 204. Although he failed to reach 200, Jerry Perpetua rolled 198-198-195 to fashion a 591 — high series for the night.

Tiger Garage enjoys a 62-50 lead over Grover Lumber in the standings. Crescents and Princeton Aviation each has a 46 to tie for third.

INTERFLEET RACES NEXT
On Lake Carnegie. The annual Interfleet Trophy competition will be held this Sunday and next on Lake Carnegie. The Carnegie Sailing Club trophy is awarded for the best performance by any skipper on the two weekends.

Since at least four boats are required in each fleet, Sloop Fleet Captain Paul Porter urges all class owners to turn out for these special races.

In last week's races, Bob Holzman upheld his reputation as a heavy weather ace when he won four of six Sunfish races, as heavy winds buffeted Lake Carnegie. Ed Metcalf finished second and Jack Kunz was a close third.

In the sloop class, Hector Poventud edged out Paul Porter for top honors.

PERKS 51-46 OVER HAC
For Basketball Title. Perks came from behind last week to defeat Harrison Athletic Club, 51-46, and win the championship of the Princeton Recreation Adult Basketball League. Perks won the series, two games to one.

Perks, which went through the regular season, 6-0, was led offensively by Mike Suder and Bobby Staats, who scored 16 and 14 points. Gil Radday, Harrison's 6-8 center, led all scorers with 21 points.

HAC overcame an early lead by Perks and was ahead, 44-40, with three minutes remaining, when Staats proved to be more than the HAC man-to-man defense could han-

Is Brutality in the Bible Worse for Children Than That on TV?

Paul Ritts is a storyteller in the age-old tradition of the spoken word. His media is television and his method is puppetry.

He involves and extricates his animal characters in plots that reflect the human situation, but the giraffe never picks up a pole and whacks the ostrich on the head.

CBS sent his fable, "The Great Silence," out over the network during prime evening time about ten days ago—a whimsical tale of what might happen if humans stopped communicating.

"If our children have learned violence from television—and we have reason to believe they have," he said after the broadcast, at his home on Van Dyke Road, "One thing must be said in television's defense. I believe there is not one parent who dresses up his child on a Saturday morning, sits him down in front of the TV set, and says by either word or implication, 'Now, son, watch and listen carefully. Learn these stories you are about to see, and structure your life accordingly.'"

"Both the child and the parent realize that the TV programs on Saturday morning—even at their most violent, even at their most tasteless—are designed for fun and fun only. Even the worst are meant to amuse, not instruct."

Sunday School. "But on Sunday morning, we do dress our little ones in their Sunday best and we do say by word and implication, 'Now, children, watch and listen carefully, learn these stories and structure your life accordingly.'"

He cites the Bible tale of the boy who stoned a man with a rock and then rushed over and cut his head off with a sword. "We tell our children that story and ask them to admire little David."

Paul Ritts went on, "We tell them the story of how the Judeo-Christian God became especially angry with his created children one day and drowned them all—all except one little family. We tell them how thousands upon thousands of men, women, children and babies went down in those swirling, muddy waters. We then invite them to take their crayons and color a picture of the holocaust."

He looks at the stories from the point of view of children's television programming and wonders if they would be considered suitable material if they were not labeled Stories from the Good Book.

Back in 1968, he played a part in the early preparations for "Sesame Street." There was a three-day conference at Harvard of people from all walks of life—psychologists, psychiatrists, publishers, educators, broadcasters, authors, musicians, artists and "even a puppeteer."

It was the public's concern that brought about Sesame Street, he comments. "I think most of us would agree that Sesame Street is at least a giant step in the right direction." The violence is gone, he adds, from the better television shows for children: Sesame Street, Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood, Take a Giant Step, Make a Wish, and Electric Company among them.

Break the Chain. He quotes Dr. Thomas Gordon, adviser at NBC where Paul Ritts and his wife Mary furnish a segment of a children's show, "If mankind is to survive, we must break the chain of violence."

"Gone are the Grimm Fairy Tales," Mr. Ritts says happily. "I'm afraid that most of us adults didn't realize until recently how grim they really are. We were used to them. They were traditional. We just didn't suspect what a profound effect they were having on our children who were hearing them for the first time."

"Parents who tried to lose their children in the woods, a witch who popped unsuspecting children into hot ovens—those same children reversed the tables and murdered her—Rumpelstiltskin, the baby stealer..."

There is no sure knowing how profoundly the stories may have affected the attitudes of this generation of adults, "but they made us become accustomed to violence! They made us feel, however subconsciously, that violence is indeed a way of getting things done."

Paul and Mary Ritts are former Sunday School teachers, parents who taught their son when small the traditional prayer "Now I lay me down to sleep...If I should die before I wake, I pray the Lord my soul he'll take."

"I'm sure few child psychologists would recommend that just at bedtime you bring up, night after night, the possibility of your child's not making it through the night alive..."

"Maybe you saw the New Yorker cartoon that showed a father spanking his small son and saying with each stroke of his hand, 'Perhaps this will teach - you - to - stop - hitting little-brother!'"

More Violence. Paul Ritts cites the Bible story of "the father who heard a voice tell him to kill his little son, and how that father without a word of protest placed the boy on a pile of wood and raised his knife and would actually have done it if he hadn't been stopped at the last minute."

"We tell our children that story and ask them to admire that kind of daddy, and try to be like him in unquestioning faith. We tell our little ones how at Passover time the Judeo-Christian God moved through the land of Egypt, killing little babies whose fathers neglected to smear their door posts with blood."

"We tell children the stories of Moses and his tribes in the wilderness and how they did battle again and again against people they came across, in the service of their God. We tell them in the Book of Numbers of how the Judeo-Christian God instructed Moses to 'avenge the people of Israel against the Midianites'. And how Moses sent them to war, a thousand from each tribe, and they slew every Midianite male.

"And we tell them how Moses was angry with his officers for not obeying God's command to the letter, and how he sent them back to finish the job by killing all the women and children, sparing only the young virgins."

"And we tell our Sunday School classes how God was pleased and rewarded Moses and his tribes with much booty!"

Tent Spike. A few Sundays ago, Paul Ritts heard on the radio an actual Sunday School class of first graders in central New Jersey. "The teacher told the 6-year-olds how Deborah, God's special prophetess, sent the Israelites to war against the army of Sisera and assured them God would deliver Sisera into their hands. She told them how a woman named Jael tricked Sisera into coming to her tent to rest after his whole army was destroyed, and how Jael waited until he slept and then drove a tent spike through his head, pinning him to the dirt floor."

"The teacher told them how Deborah and the Israelites rejoiced at this victory that God had promised. You could hear the little piping voices of the 6-year-olds throughout the program, until the end of the story when they fell completely silent."

Mr. Ritts sees devastating lessons in violence in stories such as these. He argues that even the best parents, the most concerned parents, are unaware that they are passing on violence to children as a way of life. Traditional stories from the Bible repeatedly solve social and moral problems through violent means and it is logical, he maintains, that some of the Sunday School students solve teenage problems through violence, and as adults in position of high national office resort to violent means.

"It is hard for us Americans to face the grim fact that since World War II we have dropped more bombs, destroyed more property and killed more human beings than the rest of the nations of the world combined.

"My 'unthinkable question' is this—Are we brutalizing our children's minds by at least SOME of the things they see and hear in Sunday School?"

Marc Connelly's film classic, "Green Pastures," will be shown at 10:30 on Tuesday in the campus center auditorium at Princeton Theological Seminary. The film inaugurates a series planned for the "Life of Jesus" class, which is open to the public. President James L. McCord has announced.

A lecture titled, "Jesus as Black and White" will be given by the Rev. Dr. Edler G. Hawkins as a response to the movie at 9 a.m. on Thursday, April 20. Dr. Hawkins is professor of practical theology and coordinator of Black Studies. The class meets in Room 6 of Stuart Hall.

The course is under the direction of seminary professors Johan Christiaan Beker and Hugh T. Kerr. Dr. Kerr devised a highly successful course using film several years ago.

HANDIWORK IN SPACE

From RCA Astro on Apollo 16. Petticoats and pajamas won't go to the moon aboard Apollo 16 when it is launched Sunday, but some of Mrs. Ann Nieroda's stitching will. She is a space-age seamstress who designs, develops and finally sews the multi-layered plastic thermal insulation blankets that will be wrapped around much of the hardware on the spacecraft. In outer space, the temperatures tumble down much deeper or climb higher than those to which the astronauts are generally accustomed.

Before she was even a teenager, Mrs. Nieroda learned from her mother how to make petticoats and pajamas. Now as a grandmother of four, she still sews as an avocation. As a widow — her husband was a New York City banker — she left her native Brooklyn, settled in Monmouth Junction a few years ago and became a specialist in sewing mylar plastic thermal coverings. The trick to this, she explains, is that, unlike sewing on cloth, the stitching cannot be removed from the mylar without permanently damaging it; consequently, a mistake can be very costly.

Many Layers. She recently completed the thermal coverings — some of which have as many as 27 thicknesses — for the Ground Commanded Television Assembly (CCTA) and the Lunar Communications Relay Unit (LCRU) coverings that will blanket RCA equipment during the flight of Apollo 16. While most of the public will be generally conscious only of the RCA TV color camera that will again send back pictures from the moon, Mrs. Nieroda will be watching to see that the thermal insulation will keep much of the sophisticated gear warm enough — or cool enough — to make the mission a success.

The insulation covers she has sewn — something like plastic mats covered with tin foil — were placed over the equivalent of blueprint drawings, and traced on photostats. It was a painstaking and delicate job.

She has worked in the electronics industry for more than 15 years, the last three with RCA's Astro Electronics Division here as one of the few women who helped boost men to the moon. Truly a professional seamstress, in a most difficult position, she relaxes by sewing her own clothes, draperies and even petticoats and pajamas for her grand-children.

Mrs. Nieroda's grandchildren, all young, may not fully appreciate their recently received Christmas petticoats and pajamas, but someday they may read about her very technical sewing in history books — when authors finally digest and write about the myriad efforts that went into helping the men on the moon.

FARM HERE BOUGHT

For Use as Riding Center. The purchase of Meadow Mouse Farm, Cherry Hill Road, Montgomery Township has been announced by its new owner, Miss Prudence Morgan, who plans to develop the property as the Princeton Riding Center.

Working with Miss Morgan in the venture will be Major Dezso Szilagyi, who has been leasing the farm from the former owners Dr. and Mrs. J. Mercer Rampona for the past 18 years.

In 1956, Miss Morgan started riding with Major Szilagyi, who had been building Meadow Mouse Farm practically plank by plank himself. He often spoke to her of his dream of having a real riding center at the farm, with facilities to train both riders and horses to the highest levels of dressage, show jumping and cross country riding.

It is Miss Morgan's intention to make the farm into just such a center. New facilities will soon be built, including 30 stalls, a gallery, lounge, offices and apartments.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Morgan, 161 Elm Road, Miss Morgan attended Morven Park International Equestrian Institute's instructors course for a year, after graduating from the University of Colorado in 1968. At the completion of her course, she was asked to stay on as an instructor, and she remained there until just recently.

She took time off to ride with other instructors, among them Victor Hugo Vidal, many times winner of the American Horse Show Association Instructor of the Year Award and Gabor Foltényi, highly successful show jumping hunter trainer and competitor and Jack LeGoff, U.S. Olympic coach.

When she left Morven Park, she was awarded an Instructor's Certificate with High Distinction, the only one ever presented there.

PHS PLAYS POORLY

In Loss to Cathedral. The Princeton High School nine gave a fine exhibition Tuesday of how not to play baseball. Looking anything but like the team which showed well in its opener last week with Ewing, PHS was deficient in every phase of the game, particularly fielding, as it committed eight errors. Cathedral combined the big bat of first baseman Don Piccolella, who homered, doubled and singled in four appearances at the plate, driving in five runs, with the loose play of the Little Tigers to win its second straight easily, 9-2.

"A terrible exhibition," said PHS coach Harry Zoll midway through the game. "They don't look like the same ball club."

To make sure his players got the message, he kept them on the bench after the game and addressed them: "What happened today is one of those games you have to forget ever happened. You played very poorly. It's one of the worst games I've seen a Princeton team play in a couple of years."

Only once did PHS show signs of life. In the sixth with two down, Greg Kline, Ray Richards and Bob Zinsmeister all lined successive sharp singles to score the home team's first run of the season. After Chris Grazel walked to load the bases, John Moran fanned to end it.

PHS picked up its second run in the final inning when George Boccanfuso walked, took second on a passed ball and rode home when the Cathedral shortstop and second baseman were unable to handle Don Crosby's infield hit. Princeton's only other hit came in the first when Kent Bain, second up, lofted a blooper over short. It was the Little Tigers' first hit of the season.

Mooney Starts. Sophomore southpaw John Mooney started for the Blue and White. His first pitch to leadoff batter, Mike Scully was a strike but Scully later walked on a full count. (He was eventually walked in all four of his appearances at the plate.)

Mooney fell behind most batters and it was evident he was laboring. When PHS failed to muster any rally, Zoll replaced him after three innings with Don Crosby. Mooney gave up four runs on three hits. He walked four.

Meanwhile, the PHS fielding collapsed. Catcher Bob Zinsmeister had two throwing errors, Bain had two at third, and the usually sure-handed PHS shortstop, Boccanfuso, was guilty of a pair in the sixth inning. "It's like Swiss cheese out there," commented one player.

One of the most costly miscues came in the fifth when after two were out, second baseman Moran booted an easy grounder. Bob Ogradnick took advantage of the reprieve by singling for Cathedral's fifth hit. Piccolella then lined a shot past third and both runners scored when Mike Carlucci let the ball get past him for a two-run error.

Piccolella opened Cathedral's last inning by hitting a tremendous drive into center for a home run. A walk, a steal and Princeton's eighth error added up to the victors' final run. It might have been higher but Crosby got the final two outs by picking off centerfielder Dom Sircusa and catcher Bob Thomann in succession from first base.

Jack Salay went the distance for Cathedral to get the win. He struck out five and walked three. Cathedral is 2-0, while PHS is 0-2.

Clean Out Those Fire Hazards Now!

"Too good to throw away" ... "might need it again" ... and the broken-down piece of furniture, the mattress, the stack of old magazines is added to the combustible clutter on attic or basement stair, closet shelf and over-crowded garage.

This is the nightmare that haunts Fire Chief Alistair Stewart, and this week, midway in the annual spring Clean-Up campaign, he issued a plea to Princeton householders to throw the stuff away. "Home pollution," is what the chief calls it.

"These combustibles create danger in the home environment because they provide the starting place and fuel for a fire which could destroy your home, and put the lives of your family in jeopardy," the chief points out.

Clean-up Week will continue through this Friday in Borough and Township. All those combustibles may be put at curbside for pickup.

PDS NINE WINS FIRST
Beats Rutgers Prep, 10-5. The Princeton Day baseball team settled back from an early 4-0 deficit and won its opening game of the season 10-5 over Rutgers Prep Tuesday.

Making his first varsity start pitcher John Boyd limited the losers to just four hits. Panther batters meanwhile knocked out nine safeties including doubles by Carl Rosenberg and John Mittnacht, and triples by Mark Ellsworth and John Moore.

Both teams were guilty of some sloppy play, making four errors apiece. The visitors struck first with a four-run rally in the top of the second, but the Panthers cut the margin to 4-3 in their half of the inning, and scored two more in the third to take the lead for good.

NETMEN WIN OPENER

Same Team Returns. If the names of the Princeton High School tennis varsity squad sound familiar, they should: all seven players who make up the singles and two doubles pairings are back from last year.

Another familiar sight is the team's winning way. PHS defeated Metuchen Monday in its season's opener, 4-1. Last year, coach Bill Humes' squad swept through its regular season undefeated, bowing only to Millburn in the Group 2 State Championship match.

This year, Millburn is on the Little Tiger schedule for the first time. The team was to oppose Millburn this Wednesday on the latter's home courts. PHS will open at home Friday against New Brunswick and entertain Hun on Wednesday. Both matches will start at 3:30.

The lone PHS casualty at Metuchen was the number one singles player, Michele Glouchevitch. He lost the second two sets, 4-6, 4-6, after capturing the first, 10-0.

Danny Thompson and Bill Schmidt, the number two and three singles players, won in straight sets, although Schmidt was carried to 10-8 in his first one.

In doubles play, Bob Aldridge and Nick Glouchevitch won, 6-3, 6-3, and the number two doubles of Richard Broad and Randy Thomas triumphed by the same score. The latter two and Nick Glouchevitch are juniors; the others on the team are seniors.

At PDS Fair. The Chinese Year of the Mouse will be observed at the annual Princeton Day School fair, set for 10 to 4 on Saturday, May 13, at the school's skating rink on The Great Road. The theme is oriental, but the proceeds benefit the PDS Scholarship Fund.

The rink is being transformed into an arena of Asian splendor, geared for games (including ping pong), booths, food and prizes. Mrs. Andre Yokana and Mrs. William Murdoch are co-chairmen.

An all-school event, with students, teachers and parents putting forth considerable effort, the fair will highlight a spook house, a teen booth hosted by the 11th grade girls; a Mother's Day boutique where handcrafted gifts will be sold at $2 or less; the 8th grade's White Elephant sale, and paper flowers made by 9th graders.

Obituaries

George E. Duckworth, 69, of 23 Haslet Avenue, died April 5 in Princeton Medical Center. He held the Giger professorship in classics at Princeton University at the time of his retirement last June.

Dr. Duckworth was a graduate of Princeton in the class of 1924. He was a member of the classics department for 45 years, and also served as a trustee and officer of the School of Classical Studies of the American Academy in Rome for several years.

Born in Little York, Professor Duckworth spent most of his career at Princeton, where he received his master's degree in 1926 and his doctorate in 1931. He was named professor 15 years later. He has held the John Harding Page Fellowship and the Guggenheim Fellowships during his academic career.

A frequent contributor to scholarly journals, Dr. Duckworth received wide acclaim some ten years ago for his article, "Structural Patterns and Proportions in Virgil's 'Aeneid,'" published by the University of Michigan Press. He served in 1956 as president of the American Philological Association after many years of active membership.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Dorothy E. A. Duckworth, a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy A. Brown of New Orleans, La., and a son, Thomas A. Duckworth of New York City.

A memorial service was held in Princeton University Chapel.

Burt E. Myrick, 79, of 9 Princeton Avenue, died April 11 in Princeton Medical Center. He was a former member of Princeton Borough Council.

Born in Princeton and a lifelong resident here, Mr. Myrick was graduated from Princeton University in 1914. He served on Borough Council from 1931 to 1934 and was tax collector for a period during the 1940's.

He was a director of Nassau Savings & Loan, a former member of Trenton Rotary, former vestryman at Trinity Church, and a member of the Society of the Sons of the Revolution.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Katharine E. Myrick; a son, Burt E. Myrick Jr. of Princeton Junction; a daughter, Mrs. Robert E. Holmes of Unionville, Pa., and four grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held at a later date. Contributions may be made to the Princeton Medical Center or to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad. Arrangements were made by the Mather Funeral Home.

Albert R. Evans, 87, former treasurer of the Lawrenceville School, died April 5 in Mercer Hospital after a brief illness.

Described upon his retirement in 1950 as the "most nearly indispensable man at Lawrenceville," Mr. Evans remained a familiar figure on the campus and in the village of Lawrenceville.

He joined the school staff in 1908 and during the ensuing 50 years was business manager, registrar and admissions officer. He was treasurer emeritus of the trustees of the school and an incorporator and trustee of the Lawrenceville School Camp, Inc.

At the time of his last illness, he had been busy for several years compiling records of the history of the 162-year-old school with a view to their value for a future historian. His remarkable knowledge of more than a half-century of Lawrenceville made him an invaluable source of information. "Go ask Evvie," was a common solution to many questions.

Mr. Evans, a native of Philadelphia, was a graduate of Syracuse University. He was the widower of Mrs. Mary Evans and is survived by a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Moss of Landsowne, Pa.

The service was held in the Edith Memorial Chapel at the school, with interment in Lawrenceville Cemetery. Memorial gifts may be sent to The Lawrenceville School Camp.

Warren W. Froehlich, 57, of Hightstown Road, Princeton Junction, died April 7 in Princeton Medical Center. He was president of Bohrens Moving and Storage of Princeton for the past 24 years.

Born in Germany, Mr. Froehlich lived in the Princeton area for 35 years. He was treasurer of the New Jersey Warehousemen's Association was an active member of the Lion's Club of Princeton for 25 years. He was among the founders and an early president of the Lutheran Church of the Messiah, Nassau Street, and was a former president of the Little League in Princeton Junction.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Louise M. Froehlich; four sons, Warren W. Jr. and Ted W. Froehlich, both of Princeton Junction; Edwin L. Froehlich of Hamilton Square and Gary Froehlich of Hightstown; seven grandchildren, and three brothers, Theodore W. Froehlich of Cranbury; Andrew W. Froehlich of Hamilton Square and Fred Froehlich of Princeton Junction.

The service was held in the Mather Funeral Home. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery.

Edward J. Fleming, 67, of 13 Charlton Street, died April 5 in Princeton Medical Center. A Princeton resident for 40 years, he retired in 1967 from the Forrestal Campus of Princeton University. He was a native of Shenandoah, Pa.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Harry Cauley of Princeton; and a brother, Joseph Fleming of Pottsville, Pa.

Mass of the Resurrection was celebrated in St. Paul's Catholic Church, with interment in the parish cemetery. The Kimble Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Vernon P. Stevens, 87, of 24 Moore Street, died April 7 in Doctors' Hospital, Sarasota, Fla., after a brief illness.

Mr. Stevens was a jeweler and maintained his shop at his home address for many years. He managed the jewelry shop in the Princeton University Store until his retirement in 1964. Born in Boston, Mr. Stevens lived in Princeton for 52 years, moving to Sarasota eight years ago.

Husband of the late Elizabeth Yale Stevens, he is survived by one son, V. Herbert Stevens of Princeton.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home, with the Rev. Edward H. Morgan of Westerly Road Church officiating. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery.

TREVENNA FARM, 1732-37; wing added 1940; renovation and modernization 1959-71; 15 rooms including 7 bedrooms, 4 1/2 baths; 6 fireplaces; 5 stall horse barn; paddock, swimming pool; large brick terrace; 9.21 acres.

"Originally a three-room frame farmhouse on Ten Broeck land, this antiquarian's delight was in the Skillman family for 150 years until bought by the writer I. A. B. Wylie . . . In 1940 a large wing consisting of master bedroom, servants' quarters, porch and a modern kitchen was added . . . Beautiful old flooring cut from two types of pine and hemlock has recently been stripped and brought back to the original color . . . Contrasted with the rugged simplicity of the panelling, hardware, old beams and mantels of the original part of the house is the more formal and elegant woodwork in the entrance hall and living room." From brochure of 1970 Open House in Princeton, "A History of Architecture."

Double living room with twin fireplace, Dutch oven and doors, rare mantels, original window glass, brick floors—it's all there for "early Americans"; For those who are also practical people, the essentials and extras that make for comfort are there: closets and storage galore, bookcases, pantry, laundry-freezer room, fire alarm system, etc. Moving outside, the trees are lovely, especially two huge maples adorning the terrace which must be as old as the house.

Surround yourself with trees, grass and history.

There's plenty of all three on what may be the highest spot between New York and Philadelphia. Certainly it's one of the most historic, if not the most beautiful. Just 15 homes will be custom built from your plans or ours abutting Greenacres Country Club Golf Course. Each will share in a sweep of common land... and in views and privacy all but vanished these days. Isn't all this worth $50,000 or more?

A VIEW FROM THE BALCONY

AND from the center hall, living room, dining room, den, family room and three of the five bedrooms! The "back yard" of this handsome white brick house is a secluded section of Marquand Park, providing the pleasure of beautiful specimen trees and green spaces without the pain of outlay and upkeep. In addition to that rare combination, the house itself has just about everything a comfortable and attractive home should have.

The living and dining rooms, both with fireplaces, are most gracious; the den, with fireplace, is cozy and private; the kitchen, pleasant and efficient; the bedrooms, especially the master suite with fireplace, good-sized, light and appealing. Outstanding among many outstanding features is the large paneled family room with its window seat storage, bookshelves, bar and stunning raised brick hearth fireplace topped by a huge copper hood. Closets, particularly a mud room-back hall full, are numerous; so are the bathrooms—4½; and have you counted the fireplaces? (We haven't even mentioned the variety of attractive mantels.) The large formal terrace also overlooks the gorgeous greenery of the Park, and the planting around the house rivals it. A brand new, well-priced listing at $110,000

IF OUR LIVELIHOOD DEPENDED SOLELY ON STRIPPING PAINT AND VARNISH FROM RARE ANTIQUES WE'D BE LIVING PRETTY LOW ON THE HOG. Happily business is booming at The Wood Shed and it's because customers bring us lots of nice, everyday furniture which was born about when they were. We've had our share of things a century or two old but mainly we're working with more recent vintage. So look around your home or office for a chair or table or entire set of furniture which by now really needs reviving. We strip most chairs for $7.50, dining tables for $15-25 and we can do the repairs and refinishing or show you how. In any event come out to The Wood Shed and see how nifty other people's things look. Our Chem-Clean solvent process is entirely safe for glued joints, veneer, inlay, fine woods, formica, cane, rush and metal. Wood grain stays smooth. And if you bring us one or two hardened paint brushes we'll clean them for nothing. The Wood Shed is between Princeton and Belle Mead, 1/2 mile off Route 206 on Bridgepoint Road. (201) 359-4777. We're closed Sun. and Mon.
